Michigan Week opens Saturday for eight days

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Michigan Week in Romulus will burst forth with a spectacular schedule of events that opens Saturday with Youth Day and goes non-stop through the entire week before culminating with senior citizens hosting Hospitality Day in an exciting finale May 27.

The theme, several activities include that age group Saturday as the state championship Civil Air Patrol drill team will perform a precision drill demonstration at 1 p.m.

Other activities include the pentathlon events, made up of 14 teams of jr. high and senior high teen agers competing against each other in events like obstacle course, team tug-o-war, cyclocross, soap box derby (on Ozga Road overpass) and other competition.

There will be small carnival rides on city hall grounds, with refreshments to be purchased, free balloons, Michigan Week buttons, a kiddie ferris wheel and a moon walk, one of the most popular of all activities.

The Romulus Horseman's Association will have a booth where children can come by and pet the horses. There will be a bubble gum blowing contest and marble shooting contest, among a host of other events.

At 2 p.m. Saturday, the Molby Marionettes will put on a puppet show in City Council chambers at City Hall. Molby Marionettes, listed by Michigan Council for the Arts, means that the council will financially assist them in appearing in various shows.

"It is our policy to strive for a gentle program reflecting puppetry as an art, avoiding violence but not the deliciousness of drama and suspense," said John Sutton and Philip Molby, the puppeteers.

"We think classic fairy tales to be one of the kindest and most exciting ways of telling certain facts of life to children," they said.

Both have worked as puppeteers in other lands, Sutton in Austria with the Salzburg Marionette Theatre and Molby in this country. They have appeared on television and have toured theatres throughout the country as well as performing at the famous Kungsholm Miniature Grand Opera in Chicago.

Both men are from Detroit and bring their own staging, lighting and props, which are not always feasible in the human theatre.

Sunday is Heritage Day and the Pearl Morris home at 13880 Huron River Drive will be officially designated as a local historical site in ceremonies at 10 a.m.

At 2 p.m. there will be a community pot-luck picnic where each family brings their own lunch to Elmer Johnson Park, Ozga Road, between Wick and Tyler roads.

At 3 p.m. city employees will battle the school employees in a softball game.

Mayor's Exchange Day will highlight Government Day on Monday as Manistee Mayor Vickers C. Hansen and his entourage will be greeted at City Hall at 9 a.m. by Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Banks.

The greeting will mark the beginning of a whirlwind series of activity for the visiting officials that will culminate in a Mayor's Exchange Day Dinner at 6:30 p.m. Monday at Ramada Inn, near the pool area.

Tickets are available at the City Clerk's office at $7.50 per person or $15 a couple and the public is invited and urged to attend to welcome Dr. Hansen and his party. (See visiting mayor's schedule below).

Tuesday is World Trade Day and the public will get a behind-the-scenes look at a busy international airport—Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport. Two free tours—at 9:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.—are planned for the public by Wayne County Road Commission as they did last year.

The tours will visit an airlines kitchen preparing meals for a flight, a modern international terminal, freight areas, plus the possible boarding of a giant 747 cargo plane.

Wednesday is Livelihood Day, sponsored by the new Romulus Chamber of Commerce. (See story on this page).

Thursday is Education Day and special activities are planned at "Open Houses" at all schools.

Friday is Hospitality Day, sponsored by We The People, with a variety of booths and exhibits at Kennedy Park from 4 to 9 p.m.

On Saturday, the week draws to a close as senior citizens host Community Pride Day with a host of games, contests, craft demonstrations and square-dancing to close out a fun-filled week.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday's activities will be covered in much more detail in next Wednesday's Romulus Roman.

500 Expected at luncheon

Chamber to get charter

Much planning and hard work will culminate in success next Wednesday when the Romulus Chamber of Commerce will receive its charter on Livelihood Day during Michigan Week.

The new Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a Charter Civic Luncheon at 12:30 p.m. at Romulus Ramada Inn May 24 and the group hopes for a turnout of 500 guests from all walks of life in Romulus.

Although the Chamber is primarily for business persons, Chamber officials made it clear that this Civic Charter Luncheon is for everyone who would like to come.

They are hoping to sell 500 tickets at $7.50 each for the special charter event. "We hope to sell at least 500 tickets and we're trying to sell them by the table—only $75 for a table of ten," said Bonnie Lozier, executive secretary of the Romulus Chamber.

Mrs. Lozier said that Chamber members had a breakfast meeting at Ramada Inn this morning and laid plans for a "sale blitz" to sell tickets for the Civic Charter Luncheon next Wednesday.

At the chartering of the Romulus Chamber, Jim Barrett, president of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce will be the featured speaker.

A cocktail hour at 11:30 a.m. will precede the luncheon which is scheduled to include fresh fruit in pineapple, open face prime rib sandwich, au gratin potatoes, peas and carrots and a beverage.

"For the past four months, a group of concerned and interested business people from the city of Romulus have been working and laying the foundation for the re-organization of the Chamber of Commerce in our city," Chamber President C.J. Carpenter and Secretary Jim LaRade told local business people in a letter.

On May 26, the Chamber is sponsoring a booth at Kennedy Park during Hospitality Day and is seeking help from members to work in the booth from 4 to 10 p.m.

"Right now, our biggest project is to have a large attendance at the Civic Charter Luncheon, which we feel will play a very important part in the future of Romulus," said a Chamber spokesman.

The objectives of the Romulus Chamber of Commerce are:

1) To develop, encourage, promote and protect the commercial, professional, financial and general business interests of the City of Romulus.

2) To promote the civic interests and the general welfare of the community.

3) To extend and promote the trade and commerce, and foster, develop and protect the industry of the city.

4) To encourage and support all civic enterprises organized for that purpose.

5) To promote laws and regulations desirable for the benefit of business in general and the general betterment of the community.

6) To provide a forum for the reflection of the sentiments of business regarding matters affecting its interests.

7) To encourage, promote and support increased efficiency in the administration of civic affairs.

Runaway home nixed

City officials and residents of Romulus learned last week that the house at 7174 S. Wayne Rd. will not be leased for use as a shelter care facility for status offenders, and abused and neglected young people.

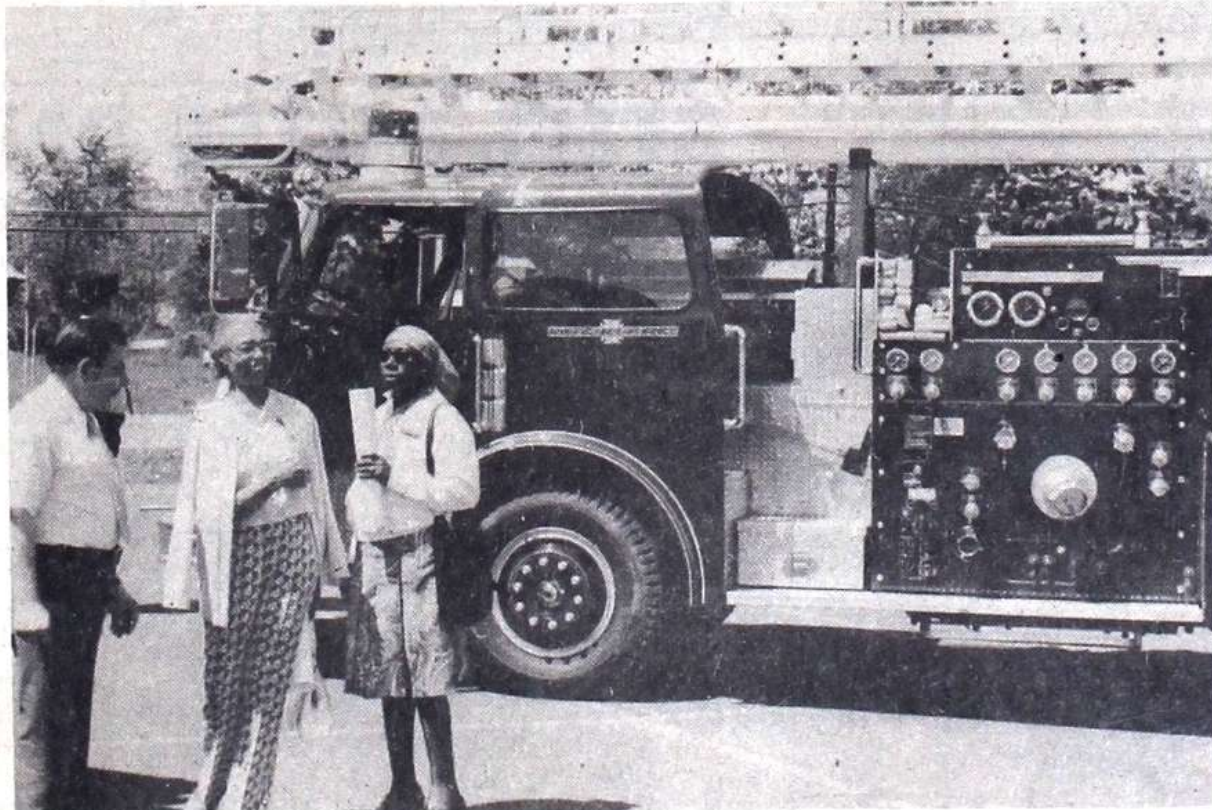

Mayor William M. Oakley received a letter from Leonard Melnick, chairman of the board of directors of Out-Wayne County Youth Services Coalition, Inc., informing him of the group's decision.

"Because of the opposition of neighborhood people to the use of this home for such purposes, we have decided not to pursue the leasing or licensing of said house," Melnick wrote.

"Please consider this matter closed as far as we are concerned as of this writing."

Mayor Oakley notified council members of the decision at last week's meeting.

Guardian of local homes

This Romulus fire engine was on display all during Michigan Week last year and these residents, along with hundreds of others, enjoyed examining the truck and taking part in the many activities of the 8-day celebration to honor our state's resources and heritage. Michigan

Week starts this Saturday morning with a host of activities geared to the youth of the city and the week-long celebration winds up May 27 with senior citizens hosting Community Pride Day. (Picture courtesy Jay Young, Romulus Public Information Office).

Senior testing to close

Tomorrow is the last day of health tests for senior citizens, 60 years or older, who live in the five-community area of the cities of Romulus and Belleville and the townships of Van Buren, Sumpter and Huron.

The tests, which have been held the last three weeks at the Sumpter Family Clinic, 19130 Sumpter Rd., Sumpter, is a health screening project conducted by the Wayne County Dept. of Health.

Today and tomorrow is the last two days to have a health team examine you. A health team, consisting of a physician, social worker and registered nurses, will provide a wide range of screening services, including a health history, height and weight measurement, blood pressure, temperature, pulse, respiration, pap smear, glaucoma, and hearing and vision testing.

Minor laboratory tests also will be done. The goal of the health project is to assist senior citizens in gaining access to necessary medical care.

Persons interested should call the Wayne County Health Dept. at 274-2800 or 729-2211, ext. 258, as soon as possible for an appointment.

The department of health is conducting the tests in cooperation with the Detroit-Wayne County Area Agency on Aging.

Legislative package would open up state government to public scrutiny

A legislative package designed to open state government to public scrutiny has been introduced by State Rep. Robert C. Law (R-36th District).

The two bills and a resolution for a constitutional amendment would require more public accountability by government and would offset growing criticism of the legislature, Law said.

"We owe the public the best job and most open government we can provide," Law said. "I think this package will go a long way in routing out inequities and any illicit activities that may go on in government, as well as controlling the size of bureaucracy."

The constitutional amendment, which must be approved by the legislature and by a vote of the people, would increase the scope of the office of auditor general. It would be similar to the federal General Accounting Office.

"This office would be responsible for investigating the efficiency of state departments and would look for any questionable and illegal activities that relate to state funds," Law said.

The two bills would deal directly with the number of public employees and their salaries and fringe benefits.

One bill (HB 6326) would prohibit the bureaucracy to grow at a greater rate than the percentage of population growth in the state.

"This would automatically control the size of the bureaucracy. If, for some reason, the Department of Management and Budget determined that the total number of state employees increased at a greater percentage rate than the population, the number of state employees would be reduced by attrition until the requirements specified in the bill are met," Law explained.

The second bill (HB 6325) would open to public scrutiny all state employees' wages and fringe benefits so the people can know not only how many people are employed by the state, but exactly how much they are paid and why.

"I think if we can accomplish the goals of containing bureaucratic growth and eliminating illegal and questionable activities, then we will have taken a major step in providing good government in the future," Law said.

Swim for life

The T-shirts sported by these youngsters express the motto of the Michigan Heart Association: "We're fighting for your life." But these and other Belleville youngsters were swimming for your life recently, participating in a "Swim for Heart" event at Belleville High School. They raised money by obtaining pledges for every lap they could swim in the Belleville pool in one hour. Top money-raiser in Belleville was Andre Renier, 8, (right), and another of the top participants was Courtney Samuels, 10, (left). Congratulating the youngsters and awarding them tape recorders for their efforts, is Dr. Phillip Grillo, Belleville resident and president of the Southern Wayne Heart Unit of the Michigan Heart Association.

Program to survey mammals

Learn about the "Mammals of Kensington" during a special program to be conducted at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark near Milford on Sunday at 9 a.m.

Using slides, skins, skeletons and a walk along the trails, naturalist Dave Moilanen will explore interesting adaptations and life histories of the mammals commonly found in Kensington.

Some of the time will be spent following a deer trail through shrubby and wetland areas. Participants should bring water resistant boots.

Advance registration is a must for this 2-hour program, and vehicle entry permits are required.

For information or registration contact the nature center of Kensington Metropark at 685-1561 (Milford).

Stars stage show in sky during May

Summer constellations and "a parade of planets across the sky" are among the astronomical highlights of May, according to University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh.

"May features Venus passing Jupiter, both bright objects," she noted. "At the beginning of the month, Jupiter is located about 26 degrees above and to the left of Venus. As the month progresses, Venus will approach closer and closer to Jupiter until the 28th when their distance apart is less than 2 degrees.

"In a similar fashion, Mars will be approaching Saturn, situated near Regulus in Leo. At the beginning of May, Mars and Saturn are well up in the southwest at dusk, 21 degrees apart, both west of Regulus. By the end of the month, Mars catches up with Saturn, less than 2 degrees apart.

"An interesting observation on the 23rd: The following pairs are 5 degrees apart—Venus and Jupiter; Mars and Saturn; and Saturn and the bright star, Regulus."

Among the constellations a special group to watch is Scorpius, visible during the summer evenings in the southern sky.

"Made up of many bright stars, it curves up to the left like a giant fish hook, and very much resembles the creature that it is supposed to represent," Prof. Losh said. "This group is said to depict the famous Scorpion which sprang out of the earth and stung Orion from which he is said to have died.

"The star pictures of Orion and Scorpius are so placed that as Scorpius rises in the east, Orion, as if in fear, disappears from view in the west."

Another constellation, Lyra, rises in the far northeast. This group takes the form of an equilateral triangle with a parallelogram attached at the lower right corner and the bright star Vega at the apex.

Saving fuel

Proponents of the new wave of "self-serve" gas stations felt they would do a much larger business as a result of customers pumping their own gas. But they probably never dreamed that a pair of four-footed animals would take advantage of their sign and help themselves. Amy Hopson, 13, (left) holds Go-Go and Terri Elliott, 13, reigns in Ginger the pony as the pair of Romulus girls let their pets chew a little snack. The pair of "grass-guzzlers" were snapped by ANP Photographer Tom Greenwood at the corner of Wayne and Wick roads in Romulus.

Lions Club 'roars' at successful drive

Romulus Lions Club members had a successful time manning the main street corners recently in their annual White Cane Drive.

The main fund-raiser of the year was headed by Lions Henry Nolen and John Brimble and was overseen by Archie Vaughn, secretary-treasurer.

"We would like to thank everyone who participated in our White Cane Drive to ensure the assistance to the needy of the area," Brimble said.

"We help primarily in the areas of sight conservation and to the blind or sight impaired."

An illuminated sign was placed at three or four main corners of the city to remind the public of the collection drive.

White Cane Week was proclaimed throughout the state from April 28-May 6.

State projects include the world famous Leader Dog School, Welcome Home for the Blind and the local Penickton Center for the Blind and Handicapped in Taylor.

"We're thankful to everyone who gave to our cause in Romulus because each Lions Club is responsible for its own area," said Brimble, past president of the local Lions Club.

He said that the Lions Club is not in the habit of issuing public proclamations when they dispense funds for the needy but noted that Treasurer Vaughn managed a budget of almost $4,000 last year.

"If anyone would like to become a Lions Club member and help the blind and sight impaired, they can call me at 941-6000, said Brimble, who mentioned that the Romulus Lions Club meets the first and third Wednesday nights of each month.

Both Gov. William Milliken and Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley proclaimed White Cane Week from April 28-May 6.

In signing the proclamation, both elected leaders "urged all citizens to become familiar with the meaning and purpose of the White Cane and Leader Dogs, and to lend support to other worthwhile Lions projects."

Biking days are revived for parkway

Bicycling enthusiasts in Wayne County, prepare!

The annual Hines Drive Bike Days, four days set aside by the Wayne County Road Commission in co-operation with neighboring communities, got underway Saturday.

Other dates set aside by the Road Commission for the closing of Hines Drive to all motor vehicles, are June 10, Sept. 9, and Oct. 14, all Saturdays. Only bicyclists and hikers will be permitted on Hines Drive, in the Middle Rouge Parkway, between Ford and Haggerty Roads, from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Following the traditions of recent years, numerous local community activities, such as charitable fund-raising "bike 'n' hike-a-thons" will also be held on the same days, although the "Bike Days" are primarily for the enjoyment of the public — without the worry of motorized traffic.

Special barricades will be installed at all entry points to the scenic Hines Drive, with designated parking areas located outside the parkway area. Family picnics have become an important part of the Bike Days' tradition and refreshment stands will be located along the route.

Of our environment

School camp aids students' understanding

In an effort to provide learning experiences in a variety of environments, the sixth grade classes of four Romulus Elementary schools will be involved in an outdoor education program next week.

Approximately 200 students from Cory, Halecreek, Merriman and Wick Elementary schools will be boarding the buses on Monday for the trip to Camp Nahelu near Ortonville. They will return May 26.

The Outdoor Education Program is designed to promote a better understanding of our natural environment, to enable each person to grow socially, mentally and to experience the opportunity to be self-reliant.

A basic goal of the total program is to acquaint the sixth graders with other sixth graders in the school district to ensure a smoother transition when they enter junior high in the fall.

The first step in the getting-acquainted process was a pre-camp experience day held at the senior high school April 14. Each child followed a schedule of mini-classes which were designed to acquaint the children and staff. The staff members introduced basic concepts of the classes that will be taught at camp.

Even though the children will be at Camp Nahelu for only one week, the entire year has been spent in preparation for the trip. The children opened accounts at a local bank and each week conducted a "Bank Day" in school. One of the children was the "teller", who collected the money and stamped the books. The children also prepared their own snacks to be used during the evening activities at camp.

A production line was set up to assemble the notebooks which all the children will use during classtime at the camp. The final activity was the construction of a knapsack, with their name on the front, which will be worn all week.

A major part of the pre-camp activities during the year were fund-raising events. The children pay approximately $25 and the rest of the expenses are covered by money raised at after-school dances; play production; potato chip and ice cream sales during lunch time and variety of other sales including gift cards, small items for Christmas, candy, patches for jeans and sweat shirts.

A considerable amount of money was raised by one group of teachers who were the targets of wet sponges in a booth called "Hog Wash" at a school fair.

While at camp the children will follow a daily schedule which includes four classes, two recreation times, swimming, boating and an evening activity.

Some of the classes offered include Nature's Numbers, Arts and Crafts the Natural Way, Compass and Orienteering, Microbiology, Creative Expression of Nature, Study of Plants and Animals, Acclimatization, Ecology, Outdoor Survival and Weather Forecasting.

Evening activities vary and are somewhat dependant on the weather. These may include a feature-length movie, scavenger hunt, night hike in the woods, a square dance, camp songs and marshmallow roast around a campfire and the "Natural Gong" show.

This year, Camp Nahelu is equipped with a video-cassette recorder and many of the activities will be recorded to be viewed at a later date by the parents and children.

A principal will be on hand each day to oversee activities. Since there are four schools attending, the principals from those buildings will share in this capacity.

The principals who have been a great help all year in this endeavor, include Eugene Barr, Richard Goode, Arthur McPharlin and Barbara Newman.

The staff members include 14 teachers from the school district and three high school student. The three high school students include Jeff LaFramboise, Robert Blanton and Michael Meland.

The teachers accompanying the students include Mark Anderson, Gretchen Firestone, Ken Horn, Marian Horowitz, Pat Johnston, Beth Markovich, Joe Murphy, Jerry Nesteruk, Doris Persico, Chris Powers, Chuck Shamey, Pete Silveri, Sande Watt and Tom Williams.

During the week of camp, a parent's night will be held on May 24. All parents are welcome to visit the camp and the students.

Dream comes true

"This just has to be a story book dream come true."

That's the way Director Richard Kruse described Romulus North Junior High School Symphonic Band's second consecutive first division (superior) rating in state competition.

On May 6, North's band competed at the State Band Festival in Mt. Clemens and was the only Class A junior high band from Wayne County to receive a superior rating.

And it was one of only two Class A junior high bands from the entire metropolitan Detroit area, including the suburbs, to receive the coveted rating.

"The sound of the band was magnificent," Kruse said. "Our competitor schools all had ninth graders while North Junior High has only seventh and eighth graders. This plus the fact that 40 percent of our Symphonic Band started as seventh graders means that our students, after 1½ years playing experience, outlasted bands with five and six years' musical experience."

Kruse said the odds against achieving the feat were tremendous.

Kruse pointed out that one judge commented about the great tone quality of the band, and another gave it an A-plus-plus for beauty of tone, blend and balance.

Several other performances are on tap for North Junior High. The band will play at Romulus City Hall on Mayor's Exchange Day, May 22, during Michigan Week.

In addition, the musical aggregation will perform with other bands in the annual North Junior High Spring Concert at 7:30 p.m. June 1, in the gymnasium. The program will feature the Symphonic Band, the North Junior High Concert Band, the sixth grade Honors Bands and the fifth grade Beginning Band.

Admission is free and the public is invited to the musical program which will feature many lighter selections.

Director Kruse commended his Symphonic Band for its "excellent work" this year.

"These students will cherish this first division rating for the rest of their lives, and I was thrilled to have a part in it," said Kruse, a University of Michigan graduate who plays 12 musical instruments.

"There are only 18 Class A junior high schools in Michigan, so our first division rating places us in the top 10 for sure, and possibly among the first five."

Kruse said the final results would be published in June.

County fights sewage plant

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners, acting at the request by the county health department, has directed its lawyers to "take whatever legal action is necessary" to prevent construction of the proposed Ypsilanti sewage treatment plant due to a pollution warning.

The decision was made on the basis of charges that the sewage treatment plant would pollute Belleville Lake and force the banning of swimming, fishing and water sports on the largest lake in the county.

The board acted on an emergency basis at a May 4 meeting after being informed that bonds to finance the plant's construction will be issued shortly.

"Large amounts of flow from the plant will be dumped into Willow Creek, which empties into Belleville Lake, and pollute and probably close the lake for any public use," Commissioner Thomas Presnell told the meeting.

Willow Creek empties into Belleville Lake within 1,000 feet of the Van Buren Township bathing beach.

The County Department of Health is responsible for checking water purity of lakes in the county and has the power to close them to water sports when pollution is above safe levels.

Chief Assistant Corporation Counsel George Cross said the seeking of a court injunction to block issuance of bonds for the plant was among the possible actions which his office would study.

Belleville Lake and the Huron River, which flows through the lake, is "two of the choicest recreational facilities for the people of this county and the surrounding area," Commissioner Edgar Harris said. He added: "This past summer, Belleville Lake had to be closed to swimming, fishing and, in many instances, to boating. The bacteria showing up in the lake can come from only two sources—warm-blooded animals or human sewage. There are no animal farms upstream from the lake, so it has to be human sewage."

Glenn J. Brown, health department director of environmental health, said his department feels that Ypsilanti should be required to discharge the treated sewage into Ford Lake in Washtenaw County rather than into Willow Creek.

Posters everywhere

The youngsters at Merriman Elementary School in Romulus put their best artistic talents to work recently to come up with posters to promote this weekend's school fair. The fair will be at the school, located at 15303 Merriman Road, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday. And to recognize the artistic ability of the students winning promotional posters were picked. The winning entries were by Lora Kuehnelt (front row, from left), morning kindergarten; Marc Livecche, afternoon kindergarten; Chris Bolda, Connie Ozment and Lisa Roy, first grade; Todd Ducheny, Paul Pyenta and Mark Brabawn (back row, from left), second grade; Jim Cianfarani and Marian Berlin, third grade; Kerry Cowger, Kim Pappas and Devin Doherty, fourth grade; and Cathy Panek, Margie Fischer and Will Cianfarani, fifth grade. — ANP photo by Tom Greenwood.

Ford backs fund renewal

Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District) has co-sponsored legislation to renew the Anti-Recession Revenue Sharing Program, which allocates federal funds to states and local communities when the national unemployment rate is more than six percent.

Since the national rate is expected to fall below six percent this fall, this money would no longer be available even for states such as Michigan where the jobless rate is higher than the national average.

Congressman Ford said the legislation he has sponsored would allow anti-recession funds to be distributed so long as national employment is above five percent.

The program was authorized in 1976 as part of the Local Public Works Employment Act and entitled Anti-Recession Fiscal Assistance. It was designed to provide states and municipalities with extra money during economic depressions to help them maintain necessary public services.

During the 1977 fiscal year, the program provided nearly $1,000,000 to the 21 communities in Congressman Ford's 15th District. The figure will probably be even higher in the current fiscal year.

"Loss of this financial aid would place a severe burden on many communities and might force them to reduce police and fire protection or other essential services," Congressman Ford said. "I think it would be most unwise to curtail these funds at a time when the national economy still is sluggish, and inflation remains a serious problem."

Raised beds aid gardening

If your only potential gardening spot is poorly drained, or if you aren't able to do the bending and stooping that ordinary gardening requires, raised beds may be a way to gardening success.

If you don't have either of these two gardening problems, building raised beds may just be making extra work.

Horticulture specialists at Michigan State University point out that improved drainage is the most common reason for constructing raised beds.

Ten to 12 inches of porous, organic soil can turn a poorly drained or hard clay site into a productive garden spot.

The convenience of bringing plants up toward the gardener also can be an important factor, pointed out Lee Taylor, a horticulture specialist.

Even people in wheelchairs can garden, if beds are raised to 18-24 inches.

Raised beds usually are constructed with some kind of wall around them to hold the soil. Railroad ties and old lumber — treated with copper naphthenate to prevent decay — cement blocks, leftover patio blocks and a variety of other castoff or inexpensive materials can be used.

Because a raised bed tends to become a fixed part of the landscape, plan it into the general landscape scheme, suggests Joe Cox, Extension landscape architecture specialist.

"It can give your landscape a whole new dimension," he said.

Give some thought to repeating materials and lines from the rest of the landscape. If your house has a stone wall, use the same stone for the walls of your raised beds. If wood is a dominant theme in the home, carry it into the garden by building your retaining walls out of scrap lumber, redwood or railroad ties. Pressure-treated wood will last indefinitely, even in contact with the soil.

The size of the bed depends on what you want to grow in it, whether you'll be able to work it from all sides and how much work you're willing to put into it.

A bed that can be worked from all sides can be up to five feet wide. One that is accessible from only one side should be narrower, unless it is broken up with footpaths.

The depth of soil in the bed depends on the crops you want to grow in it. A bed for herbs or shallow-rooted annuals could be four to six inches deep. For shrubs or larger vegetable crops like tomatoes, 10-12 inches would be better.

The shape of the bed depends only on your imagination in dealing with your landscape and gardening needs. Retaining walls may be straight, crooked or curved. The soil may be sloped or terraced, as in a strawberry pyramid.

Native garden soil is not the best choice for a raised bed, Taylor advised. A porous soil made of topsoil, peat moss or compost, and sand would be a good combination.

Because the soil in a raised bed tends to warm up quicker than the earth beneath it, crops may begin to yield sooner, Taylor suggested. An advantage of raised beds over containers for gardening is that the beds are not as quick to dry out as the soil in containers exposed on all sides to drying summer breezes.

All the advantages of raised bed gardening must be weighed against the work and materials involved in constructing them, Taylor pointed out.

"Building the retaining walls and hauling the soil to fill in the beds can be a lot of work," he said. "Unless raised bed gardening is your only option, it's unnecessary labor that could easily be avoided."

'Fever' arrives on 56

The Bee Gees, the group that put the "fever" in Saturday night, will perform in a special repeat of "Soundstage" Monday at 9 p.m. on Channel 56.

This concert was recorded two years ago, just after the Bee Gees started their phenomenal rise to the top of the charts with their soul-stirring disco sound. Also appearing with the Australian group will be Yvonne Elliman.

The Bee Gees' hits form a chain beginning with "New York Mining Disaster" to "Jive Talkin'." On "Soundstage" they display a variety of approaches to music with "How Can You Mend a Broken Heart," "Words," "Lonely Days" and "I've Just Got to Get a Message to you."

Yvonne Elliman joins the group for a rendition of "To Love Somebody" and sings two of her own, "Steady as You Go" and "Can't Find My Way Home."

The Bee Gees — Robin, Barry and Maurice Gibb — reminisce with the "Soundstage" audience about the early days in their career.

New Boston businessman attends meeting in London

New Boston resident Peter Glaab was in London England, earlier this month, attending a top-level sales management meeting sponsored by the Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Co. of America.

Glaab was selected from among 800 Hamilton sales representatives to attend the sessions because of his leadership in the industry, demonstrated by his personal production.

Alexander Hamilton is a member of the Household Finance Corp. Insurance Group. Licensed in 49 states and the District of Columbia, the insurance group has more than 2 million insureds and more than $4.4 billion of life insurance in force.

Marketing executives of the parent company addressed the London meetings. The conferees probed the development and planning of marketing strategies and discussed potential new insurance products in the series of meetings.

Glaab has represented Alexander Hamilton for nine years. This is his ninth management meeting. In recognition of his success, he has been named a member of the exclusive "President's Council" and the "Inner Circle."

He and his family have been residents of New Boston for 21 years. Active in the community, he is a member of New Boston Rotary, Huron Township Planning Com-

Some families are finding a pleasant mix between the attributes of a vacation home and a city home. They are building homes adjacent to golf courses. Homesites along fairways are enjoying increasing popularity so much so that many builders are planning golf courses as part of their housing developments. Millions are turning to chiropractic because they are recognizing the scientific principles of nature that have made spinal adjustments effective for many conditions where other methods have failed.

The chart below shows the lateral view of the spinal column and indicates in section "A" names of the spinal nerves as they branch from the spinal cord and exit through openings between the vertebrae. SINAL NERVE INVOLVEMENT CAUSES MANY CONDITIONS

The spinal chart shown above is directed especially to those people who have tried to regain their health through methods other than chiropractic, and have failed. That failure should not lead to discouragement, but to greater determination to discover the fundamental cause of all disease.

Since the discovery of chiropractic, no one needs to feel that he or she is destined to be sick all their life. Remember, "Where there is life there is hope and he who has hope has everything."

Editorial opinions

Tax limitation a good idea

Called the last chance for state-wide financial responsibility by some, and a misguided taxpayers revolt by others, the drive to amend the state's Constitution with a proviso for tax limitation that is tied to the citizen's income, is gaining widespread support.

Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation, the Southfield based organization behind the move to amend the Constitution through a citizens-based petition drive, is compiling longer lists of supporters everyday.

At the heart of the problem, and underlying the necessity for such an amendment, is the state's bulging budget which has grown by more than 235 percent as opposed to the 140 percent increase in personal income during the last 10 years. Added to that is the fact that state income taxes were increasing 730 percent and local taxes 304 percent during the same period.

According to Richard Headlee, chairman of Taxpayers United, "The people of Michigan are fed up with the state government's inability to understand that sagging economic growth in Michigan is directly tied to uncontrolled state spending and taxation. The tax limitation amendment to be voted on next November will correct that."

We at Associated Newspapers support the goal of Taxpayers United. We too believe that state spending is out of control. But we do not necessarily feel that Taxpayers United has gone far enough.

On the local level, property owners are finding the everincreasing tax bills more and more difficult to handle. While there is always a sympathetic ear available at city hall that will listen to the problems facing overtaxed residents, that ear is usually unable or unwilling to effect a solution.

It is time to remove the blank check from the state lawmakers' pocket-book. The taxpayers of Michigan have placed their trust in Lansing to exercise good judgment relative to the expenditure of state funds. Too often our lawmakers have not risen to the challenge of providing necessary services within the framework of normal business standards.

The plush, carpeted offices in the State Capitol building is testimony to the order of priorities that many lawmakers have established for themselves, almost to the complete exclusion of their constituents.

We feel, that at the very least, the citizens of Michigan should be able to expect their elected leaders to represent their collective best interests. Short of the lawmakers resolving to correct the existing problems, the taxpayers must step in and implement at least one possible solution.

It may not be the best, it may not even go far enough, the tax limitation amendment but is a beginning in the right direction.

"Once burned, twice shy"

The May 3rd edition of the Romulus Roman contained within the Reader's Open Forum section a letter criticizing recreation conditions in Romulus.

The letter was received by the Roman over the typewritten signature of Tom Zbikowski. Mr. Zbikowski stated following that publication that he was not the author of the letter.

Within the May 10th edition of the Roman, we published a letter of clarification submitted by Mr. Zbikowski, which contained his denial of responsibility for the letter critical of Romulus recreation.

Because it now appears that the first letter was submitted to us for a reason other than to simply inform the community of a problem, we feel it is necessary to make the following statement: A community newspaper, not unlike a community itself, must often rely on trust. In fact, our nation as a whole has moved along quite well with little more than trust as the cement that bound it together.

But unfortunately, there are people who would destroy trust in the course of satisfying their own self-serving purposes. And, it is people of that ilk who must ultimately accept responsibility for most of the current ills that plague mankind.

It is unfortunate that Mr. Zbikowski was the target of such a person, and equally unfortunate that we at the Roman played an innocent part in that attack.

We regret any inconvenience that may have been caused Mr. Zbikowski by the publication of the first letter.

But more importantly, the people of Romulus should be aware that there are some among them who would use trust as the vehicle for their own special interest.

Reforms for accountability

The Majority Leader
State Senator William Faust
13th District

In an effort to tighten up and reform its business procedures and to make its members more accountable to the public, the Senate has created several new rules which hopefully will prevent abuses of the privileges of office.

Shortly after I took the leadership post, it was apparent to me and a number of other Senators that one of our first priorities had to be winning greater trust from the public.

Our constituents continually write about how they are losing confidence in the legislature because of the abuses they hear about through the news media pertaining to legislators who spend thousands of dollars on redecorating offices, postage and business trips.

So, without delay, we took steps to rewrite rules governing Senate procedures to ensure ethical conduct.

One of the rules approved by the Senate requires that all requests to remodel offices and purchase equipment be reviewed by the Senate Business Committee, which is the body empowered to decide all matters relating to the internal operations of the upper chamber.

Before that rule was adopted, Senators themselves could arrange for remodeling and equipment purchases. And, I should add, except for isolated incidents reported in the press, Senators exercised careful judgment in such matters.

Another rule the Senate adopted was one which requires all committee chairmen to file reports detailing committee expenses each quarter. The rule states: "Such a report shall include the date, the payee, the amount of expenditure, and the purpose. The Secretary of the Senate shall note in the Senate Journal that such an expense report is on file and open for public inspection."

The intent behind the rule is to prevent any expenses from being padded or contrived by requiring them to be documented in black and white. In addition, since committee expense reports are open to the public, they can be audited by anyone wishing to "check up" on a legislator.

A third rule adopted requires Senators to itemize expenses and provide receipts before they can be reimbursed for business expenses incurred on out-of-state trips. The business expenses of legislators are paid in a manner similar to business executives.

The rule also prohibits out-of-state travel by "lame duck" senators - those who have been defeated in elections or who have decided not to seek re-election, and remain in office until the expiration of their term. In the past, some "lame duck" lawmakers have taken trips, sometimes to plush resorts, under the guise of doing business when actually their intention was to take a vacation at public expense. Fortunately, that no longer can occur.

There is, however, one exception to the rule regulating the out-of-state travel of "lame ducks". If such a Senator has a legitimate state business to accomplish or a project to conclude before his term ends, then the Senate Business Committee can give special travel approval.

Incidentally, under the Senate rules governing out-of-state travel, Senators still have to obtain the approval of committee chairmen in order to take business trips and file a statement of purpose with the Secretary of the Senate before leaving. Within 30 days of returning, Senators also must file complete reports with the Secretary of the Senate.

Believe me, we in the Senate and House can do infinitely more to clean up the Legislature to make it a more responsive, responsible law-making body worthy of the public's trust, and we're trying to do just that.

Serious attention has been given to tightening up postage privileges in the Senate so that incumbents are not given an unfair advantage over political challengers during election time. There is a fine line between the responsible legislator who attempts to communicate with constituents through mailed materials and the irresponsible legislator who only wishes to gain name recognition by blanketing his district with a blizzard of literature mailed at the public's expense.

In addition, we're considering legislation to more closely regulate the activities of lobbyists. The public would be better protected and served with the enactment of legislation which guarantees to publicly account for their activities.

The Senate will be meeting these and other challenges during the rest of this session with an eye toward increasing the public trust.

Editor's Log

Responsibility

Not just managements obligation

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

Two weeks ago, I devoted this space to a discussion of the UAW's community press open house which I attended in April.

In that article I made the observation that the UAW's practice of boycotting selected companies appeared to run contrary to the union's professed concern for victims of plant closings. And I concluded by asking the question: How do the workers at Bear Archery feel about the boycott of their company?

By way of explanation, I used the Bear Archery Company as simply an example of one of the companies that was currently the target of the UAW's boycott. But, the letter I received from Paul Morris, the union's Region I-E international representative, has convinced me that Bear Archery was a bad example to cite.

Included with Morris' letter explaining that the UAW does not boycott companies without the involved workers' support was an article lifted from the September '76 issue of Solidarity magazine. That story, over Dave Elsil's byline, related in depth the historical background preceding the UAW's picketing of Bear Archery, and included several allegations which, if true, would have more than qualified Bear for inclusion among the long list of companies that have abused and ignored their responsibilities to the worker.

Two weeks ago, in a follow up piece on the abuse of workers by large corporations, I concluded by explaining that it was my opinion that neither unions nor large corporations were either all good or all bad. The truth was probably somewhere in between.

Well, I must admit that I was impressed by the UAW's version of the Bear Archery Co. boycott. But, in all fairness, I have not discussed the situation with Bear officials. Nevertheless, it is obvious that a significant communications problem exists between the union, its membership and Bear officials. And it is equally obvious that all parties to that dispute feel strongly that they are right.

But the important question is really: how could such a situation have developed in the first place?

Why do companies fear union organization, even companies who have not been guilty of worker abuses?

Quite possibly the answer to that question could very well be that the union itself has been guilty of abuses.

Quite possibly the goal of keeping the union itself intact has become more important, than effectively representing its members.

For too long our nation has witnessed union struggles to defend questionable workers from dismissal, when in fact the union should have been vitally concerned with the quality of its members.

Most contracts are quick to confer on management the right and obligation to manage, but are extremely slow in recognizing that productivity is the primary goal of management, and that goal can never be reached so long as the unions refuse to accept any responsibility for encouraging members to become more productive.

During my youth, I can recall the fierce union loyalty that was evident in the family kitchen.

My father, a long time employee of the Ford Motor Co. had been involved with the early organization attempts at the Rouge. He boasted of his friendship with the late Walter Reuther, and the union's impact on the improving working conditions.

But, I can't help but wonder if that was the same union that now calls itself the UAW. The same union that claimed dedicated and visionary leadership that would lead the working man out of the dark ages.

Any union, like any business, must continue to grow and change to meet the times. For business, any other course is fatal, but for unions, any other course could be fatal to the country.

Business and industry must form a joint partnership between its management and the worker. Each must come to accept their responsibility to the other.

There is no other way. Only through cooperation will our system, the best so far conceived by man, continue to flourish and grow.

Bradley article enjoyed

To the Editor:
I especially enjoyed Jim Bradley's recent article about Belleville's Mayor and his Easter Seal TV appearance.

Mayor Emerson has been a favorite of mine for many years and I appreciate keeping informed of his activities through The Belleville Enterprise!

My children look for grandpa's picture every week when the paper arrives.

Chamber president thanks supporters

TO THE EDITOR:

I would like to take this opportunity through the Associated Press to Thank all of the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce Members for their support in my team as the President for the year of 1977-1978.

And a special "Thank You" to the Board of Directors and the Members who accepted Chairmanship for the different programs that help to make the year a success.

I believe it is very important for the lake pollution committee and the Legislative Breakfast to continue, they are two important Committees that can help the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce help their Community.

Senior thanks friends

Dear Editor:

I wish to thank all my friends and neighbors for all the wonderful birthday surprises that they gave me, in home cooked dinners and birthday cakes, and gifts and greeting cards.

The 4H High Flyers and group and Awareness Team with Connie Cook, came with 13 children. Boys and girls. It sure did make my 80th birthday feel young again.

I was 80 years old March 3rd 1978. And to prove that all the fine people we have, still really care. It brought back 20 years of new life.

Thank you all again and God bless each one of you.

Thank you so much for the wonderful article Lee Smith wrote about my husband.

He was surprised and pleased.

He never expected to see an article in the Belleville Enterprise, and you certainly made it another exciting event to remember in our lives.

We all "Thank you".

Reflections

Icy recollection

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

One cool sunny day last summer a group of us mothers were splashing in the shallows of Mullet Lake, when I grabbed some little kid's raft and floated out over the waves. That's when the sun went behind a cloud and the water got icy and my memory floated back to a time when I was six years old in Idaho.

My mother hadn't been too happy about moving her family out in the wilds close to Snake River, but my father thought he had achieved heaven when he got out under those blue skies and smelled the sagebrush. Just to make sure that the rest of her family got to heaven, too, my mother used to dress us up in our Sunday best and take us to the little schoolhouse across the fields which also served as a church.

The preacher was a thunderous fellow and when he wanted to emphasize a point his fist would beat into the pulpit with righteous fury, and to my six year old thinking that preacher could whump the devil out of most anyone.

And so it came to pass that baptizing time came around and after my Sunday School teacher got through with me and the preacher told of the horrors that awaited anyone unbaptized, I began begging my mother to let me go down to the water of Snake River, so that I wouldn't miss out on heaven.

My mother looked up at the cold January skies, and then out over the snowy fields to the pieces of ice floating on Snake River. And then she said she would pray about it.

I don't know whether it was her prayers or my insistence, but she finally said that I could be baptized if the day was sunny.

For the next week she sat me in a chair by the kitchen table and hammered into my head the philosophy of baptism.

"This isn't to be taken lightly," she told me. "You must know that you are committing yourself to God." Naturally all six years of me nodded sagely as I listened to my mother and smelled the cinnamon rolls in the oven.

Sunday dawned without a cloud in the sky. Down through the icy atmosphere the rays of the sun touched earth, and I was shivering with excitement as my mother took me to the banks of the river to meet the preacher and his flock.

Some of the men had to chop up the ice that had frozen too close to the ground and the preacher waded out was it high where he lifted his arms to heaven and began to pray. Then he beckoned for the first one waiting to be baptized. Down she went and came up radiant . . . but chilled. The congregation gathered around her, singing hymns, and wrapped her in a blanket where, with teeth chattering, she joined them in singing.

Down went the next one. And she too came up radiant and prayerful. As she joined her sister, the preacher motioned to me, and before I could take a step, my mother threw her arms about me and pulled me close to her.

Raising her chin she looked first at the snow at her feet, then at the ice in the river, and finally at the preacher. "God can wait another year," she said.

On the Brighter Side

Modest salary, large returns

By JIM BRADLEY

I don't ever expect to make a lot of money being a writer.

In fact, we make a very modest salary. But there are fringe benefits in being a columnist and reporter that far exceed monetary value. And in many ways they're more to be desired.

For that matter, I'm really not concerned with how much money I make. (I hope my boss doesn't read this). Honestly, if we have the necessities of life — a loaf of bread, a comfortable bed and decent clothes — how much more do we need?

The Bible, for instance, tells us that a good name is to be chosen above gold. And friends, good, faithful, loyal, dedicated friends, are a treasure beyond measure.

I guess that's why I'm especially happy this week. Because I found quite a few fringe benefits in my "paycheck" this week when I opened my mail. Three letters came across my desk that had kind words for my literary efforts — and there's no amount of money that can take the place of that.

One of the letters was from "Chum" Stockwell, who always has a kind word for someone else. He read my column last week entitled, "Two worth a hundred", in which I commended two teen age girls for helping me in a time of need.

"Congratulations, Jim!" Chum wrote. "Just think of the good news like this that is never published. It was great that these two young ladies were observant and much greater that you published their good deed.

"Probably more damage is done in parking lots that is never reported. Keep up your good editing. We always read the editorial page first. Associated Newspapers are to be congratulated. God love you, Chum."

That was a cheerful remembrance on Chum's part. But even in sorrow, people have kind words. For instance, I had the responsibility to write a story recently about the death of Floyd (Ted) Thetford, a Trustee for Van Buren Township. It so happened that I heard about his unfortunate death just a few minutes before the deadline for the Belleville Enterprise.

I made a few hurried phone calls in an effort to give his story a special touch, a "touch" I try to give every story I write about people. Ted and I often had seen each other having breakfast at Flag's Restaurant at Belleville Road and I-94.

I can remember him vividly, his white crew cut hair atop a tanned brown face that seemed to be perpetually wrinkled in thought. He was almost always clad in walking shorts during the warmer months and I enjoyed knowing him, even if it was only for a few brief, fleeting moments of his life.

After writing the story of his passing away — and how his oft-heard chuckle had faded away for the last time — I forgot about the story. But the other day a small "Thank You" card came to the office with my name on it. On the inside, a loving hand had penned the words: "Jim Bradley — We would like to express our thanks for the article you wrote on the passing of Floyd (Ted) Thetford in last week's paper."

"It was a comforting and beautiful article. We are grateful. Thanks, Family of Ted Thetford." You can't put a dollar value on a precious card like that. I've filed it with many other similar letters and cards I've received over the years.

A third letter this week was sent from Mrs. Sharron Russell, Chairperson of the Sumpter Township "Sumpter Day Queen Contest", saying the response of teen age candidates has been the greatest ever.

Referring to a small article I did on the Queen Contest, Mrs. Russell wrote: "Mr. Bradley, due to your journalistic skill this no doubt is our most successful response to date." (I don't know how correct she is about my writing ability, but it sure does make me feel 10 feet tall!)

A fourth little note came my way a short time ago when I wrote a story about Virginia C. Melcher being named Director of "September Days", the senior citizens group of Van Buren Township. It was just a simple story, telling how the Township Board voted to name her full-time director.

A few days later, I received a card from Mrs. Melcher saying, "Thank you for the lovely newspaper release. The world needs more like you."

And the world needs more people who will sit down and say "Thank You" to someone they love and to someone who is lonely and to someone who has no "someone" to call their own.

Will you sit down now and write a "Thank You" note to someone who has done something for you lately? I guarantee it'll mean more to them than a large amount of money.

And do you know what? You'll be a lot richer for doing it, too.

A notable man and noteworthy causes

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

Just about everyone who has had the pleasure of meeting him, calls him Charlie; he's lived in Western Wayne County for over 70 years, and his many contributions to the betterment of the area are legion.

In 1922, he graduated from Wayne High School where he had been elected President of the Senior Class. At Wayne High he was an outstanding athlete as well as a good student. After graduation, he enrolled in Albion College where he was an outstanding football player.

However, a dispute arose between Charlie and a Dean of the College, and Charlie left Albion to go to work in the Trust Department of the Union Trust Company in Detroit. Simultaneously, he entered the Detroit College of Law and graduated in 1933 as President of his class.

His roots are deep in the area. His father was once the President of the Village of Wayne, and Palmer Road is named after his grandfather. Charlie served as Wayne City Attorney for eight years, Belleville City Attorney for eleven years, and has been the Woodhaven City Attorney since he directed the formation of that downriver city in August of 1961.

He seems to reflect boundless energy, and his mind is quick and alert. His ability to see beyond the obvious led to his being the leader in the establishment of the Wayne Bank in the early 1950's; he also served as the first Chairman of the Board for the bank.

His law offices are in Dearborn, and he's still an active partner in the firm. If you ever have the opportunity to sit in his office, you'll notice some autographed pictures hanging on the wall. They look somewhat out of place because they are pictures of some pretty famous Detroit Tiger baseball players — the late Paul "Dizzy" Trout, Harold "Prince Hal" Newhouser who is now a bank vice president, and George Kell the Tiger's former all-star third baseman and now the play-by-play announcer on all televised ball games.

Charlie explained, "In the middle 1940's, ball players did not make the money they make today, and they didn't have attorneys to help them in their negotiations with the club owners.

"My clients, Dizzy Trout was the first one, would meet with the General Manager and ask for a specific figure. More often than not, the General Manager and ask for a specific figure. More often than not, the General Manager would refuse to meet the price, and the ball player would then meet with me and the two of us would work out our next move.

"I'm sure that if Jack Zeller who was the General Manager at the time ever knew that his ball players were consorting with an attorney he'd have blown the roof right off what was then known as Briggs Stadium.

"And I'm equally convinced that the ball player would not have long been a Detroit Tiger. Of course things have changed dramatically, and most ball players now have agents working for them. But I believe I was one of the first in the country to serve in such a capacity."

Charlie sits on the Board of Directors for several corporations and companies — most of them are in the Western Wayne County area — and he's the former President of the Belleville Rotary. And read this carefully: he boasts a record of perfect attendance at Rotary meetings of a little better than 40 years!

His life-long commitment to the area resulted in one other event which prompted me to write this story.

Charlie is the man who is responsible more than any other for the creation of hospital authorities in Michigan. He wrote the public act (PA 47 of 1945) which enabled the creation of such organizations.

In a manner which is typically self-effacing, he advised that there were many local citizens who were as interested and active as he in developing a system of health care delivery in Western Wayne County; and that is true.

However, the fact remains that it was Charlie who provided the leadership role. He served as Chairman of the Board for the Peoples Community Hospital, Inc. — the precursor of the PCHA — and he provided all legal services for PCHA, Inc. and charged no fee for those services.

Properly he is known as Charles B. Cozadd, attorney at law and senior partner of Cozadd, Shangle & Smith law firm.

But as we wrote at the beginning, most people know him as Charlie. His law firm, incidentally, still serves as legal counsel for PCHA.

When enough time has passed to ensure objectivity as the history of this area is written, you can be assured that the name of Charles B. Cozadd will assume a prominent position.

We all owe him a sincere debt of gratitude; thanks for being around, Charlie, it's nice to have you as a friend.

Out-county logs increase in incidence of VD

According to statistics compiled by the Michigan Department of Public Health, a 6 percent increase in Gonorrhea occurred among out county residents in 1977. This contrasts to a 1 percent decline in the total United states.

The increase, according to VD Control Physician, Dr. Jane Polkowski, does not, however, represent an accurate picture of the actual incidence of the disease.

"We often say that reported statistics represent just the tip of the iceberg", Dr. Polkowski commented. "Prior studies have shown that there are 3-10 times the number of Gonorrhea cases than actually are reported."

"The amount of VD treated at the health department clinics has increased with warm weather in the past and the same is expected again this year. There are reports of disseminated Gonococemia (Gonorrhea in the blood) with tragic consequences, such as, damaged heart valves and arthritis. Pelvic inflammatory disease (PID) too often destroys female organs which may require a hysterectomy in the teens or early 20s!!

"People still think that men must have symptoms to have Gonorrhea. Not so! A number of males have no noticeable symptoms with Gonorrhea. Often they find out that they are infected when their female partner develops pelvic inflammatory disease (PID). However, most men develop discharge and burning on urination with the disease. Females usually have no noticeable symptoms, but may notice increased vaginal discharge, or pain in the lower abdomen.

"The federal and state legislators have appropriated more money for VD control. As a result of increased funding, the Wayne County Health Department has hired an additional VD investigator and expanded clinic hours at the South Health Clinic in Taylor."

Free confidential VD examinations, treatment and consultations are available at the South Health Center, 21201 Eureka Road, Taylor, from 1 to 3:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and 4:30 to 8 p.m. Tuesday. The center can be reached by calling 287-2400.

The Eloise Clinic, at Merriman and Michigan Avenue, is open daily 8:30 to 11:30 a.m., except Thursday, and 4:30 to 8:00 p.m. Wednesday. Call 274-2800.

Holes 'tell' story

Plant leaves peppered with little holes usually are the first sign that flea beetles are active in your garden.

Tomato, pepper and eggplant transplants, new potato sprouts, and radishes and turnips are favorite foods of the flea beetle. The insects also may attack cole crops, sweet corn, sweet potatoes and spinach. Because the beetles are so small and can hop off leaves quickly, gardeners usually miss the beetles and spot the damage first.

Flea beetles get their name from the way they jump from plants in a flea-like manner when disturbed. Several kinds may be present in the garden. Some are all black; others are dark with white stripes on the wing covers, blue-black or bronze. Most are about one-eighth inch long.

Adults emerge in the early spring and begin feeding on young plants. They lay eggs at the bases of the plants. When the larvae hatch, they feed on plant roots. The second generation of adults emerges in late July or early August. Feeding damage by this second generation is seldom as serious as that caused by the first generation.

Sevin (carbaryl) is a readily available garden insecticide that will control flea beetles. Be sure to read the product label, and be certain the product is approved for use against flea beetles on the crop you want to spray. Then follow label directions exactly.

Where Can a Widow Get Advice on Financial Matters?

If your deceased husband had not assigned a trust company or an attorney to handle his affairs, legal advice is a wise move.

The financial decisions which must be made immediately following a husband's death should be accomplished with the competent advice of an experienced professional, such as an attorney or banker. The "brother-in-law" route is fraught with problems and high risk.

Certain aspects of the estate, whether there is a will or not, will be decided for you by law. The will — and you definitely should have one for husband and wife — will be of utmost importance when pondering these first decisions.

We suggest you prepare yourself by some library work and by reading certain books which have been written with the widow in mind. I suggest:

The Money Book by Sylvia Porter
Sooner or Later by Jane Moore Howe
How to Manage Your Money
A Woman's Guide to Investing by Elizabeth Fowler

We may be able to provide you additional sources of help and information. Your problems are our concern, so please feel free to call on us.

Need always is there for foster families

By DURENE BUTLER
ANP Staff Writer

This is the situation: decreasing foster parents and increasing numbers of children needing foster homes.

The problem has not been solved, but there are those working on solutions.

Take Jeanette Behringer, for example. For three years, the Behringers of Wayne, have been a foster family. Working through Catholic Social Services (CSS), the four Behringers seem to have always had one or two new additions to their household.

Mrs. Behringer, who is the natural mother of a four-year-old girl and a seven-year-old boy, said that since joining the program she and her husband have had nearly 15 or 20 foster children in their custody over the 3½-year period.

Presently caring for 9-month-old little boy, Mrs. Behringer said: "We're a foster family, I'm not just a foster mother. Our kids are accepted by the whole family."

CSS is a multi-service organization with one arm outstretched to children in need of temporary foster care. Still, since the organization has no facilities for boarding these children, CSS is helpless without the dedication of people like the Behringers.

Carol Przybyla, a CSS social worker who works with both foster parents and children, confirmed the desperate need for increasing foster parent enrollment.

Przybyla explained that children, between the ages of 5 days and 18 years are either voluntarily placed into CSS care by their parents or the social agency receives referrals from the state.

While listing requirements for foster parent applicants, the social worker emphasized that the program is for temporary placement until a permanent plan is worked out.

Because foster parents only provide temporary homes, the children come and go. There is no time limit on how long they will stay or when they must leave.

Mrs. Behringer said it is disturbing when a child leaves, but she is not so discouraged that she would not take yet another foster child into her home.

"Every baby that leaves takes a little of my heart," the mother said. The woman whose heart would seem to be by now non-existent, admitted that it is not easy to adjust to a child leaving after living as a family member for a given amount of time.

However, Mrs. Behringer added "It's better that we (the family) feel a little loss than not letting a child get a good start."

In order to become a foster parent, the adult has to first be licensed by the State of Michigan.

Requirements demand that the applicant be at least 18 years old and no older than 65.

Marriage is not a requirement.

It's your right to log complaint

"It's your right to complain to a business when you have a consumer complaint; it's also your responsibility."

That's the message of a new brochure released by the Michigan Consumers Council. "How to Complain" offers consumers advice on how to effectively handle their own complaints.

"Consumers may feel helpless when faced with a product which won't work or a service which wasn't delivered," said Executive Director Linda Joy. "Often times they don't realize they have influence in the market place or, more importantly, know how to use it."

"Many complaints can be solved simply by explaining the situation to the store's owners or manager and mentioning how you would like the problem solved," she added. "Most businesses are eager to correct a problem, if they're aware of it."

Not only does the brochure emphasize talking to the store's management, it also explains how to document a complaint and what steps are available, if the business doesn't respond in a reasonable time.

For free copies of the Boaters get own 'number'

Boaters in southeastern Michigan and northern Ohio now can obtain marine weather forecasts by telephone.

The number is (313) 881-7787 and is provided as a non-profit service to boaters by Recreational Promotions Inc., producer of the Great Lakes Sailboat Show and Midwest Powerboat Show.

Updated twice daily, the marine weather announcement includes a relay of the National Weather Service's VHF radio marine forecast for today, tonight and tomorrow for Lakes Huron, Erie and St. Clair. Also, a personal weather observation made at 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. on lower Lake St. Clair by Seasoned boaters.

Jack Leverenz, president of Recreational Promotions, feels, "this service makes it possible for boaters to find out what the weather is before they leave home. It should be especially useful for those who live some distance from where they do their boating." "We're doing this," Leverenz continued, "because we think it's a useful and needed service. We have a machine that answers five lines simultaneously, and if that isn't adequate, as boaters become aware of the service and phone number, we'll put in additional lines."

Taste all 4 Zantigo Burritos.

Discover which delicious tortilla filling you love the most.

1. TACO-BURRITO.

Zantigo fills a soft flour tortilla with the same goodness that makes Zantigo Tacos irresistible: lots of special beef filling, crisp lettuce, red tomato, a tangy blend of Monterey Jack and mild cheddar cheese. If you like, add sour cream for an extra special taste treat.

2. MILD ALL-BEEF CHILI BURRITO.

Generous juicy chunks of pure beef, simmered in a lightly seasoned, mild red chili sauce. All this goodness, wrapped and served-up in a tender flour tortilla.

3. CHILI DIABLO BURRITO.

Mexican Style Green Chili loaded with big chunks of pure beef. Two kinds of chili peppers, Mexican green tomatoes (Tomatillos), onions, and a special blend of spices make it the hottest thing in Burritos.

4. BEAN AND CHEESE BURRITO.

A soft flour tortilla brimming with hearty Mexican-style beans and luscious grated cheese. For added richness, you can order one with extra cheese. Like all Zantigo Burritos, you can enhance the flavor with mild or spicy-hot sauce.

Belleville man enlists in Air Force

Ronald C. McKelvey, 19, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. McKelvey of Lakeview, Belleville, has entered the U.S. Air Force through its Delayed Enlistment Program (DEP).

According to S.Sgt. Jim Cole, the Air Force recruiter in Garden City, McKelvey will commence four years of active duty on May 24, undergoing six weeks of basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex.

The Air Force has guaranteed McKelvey, a 1977 graduate of Belleville High School, that he will receive training as an aircraft maintenance specialist.

Following completion of that training he will be assigned to an Air Force duty station.

Also in the armed forces:

Navy Seaman Recruit Matthew D. Ticknor, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Ticknor of Romine Road, New Boston, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center at Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Include in his studies were seamanship, close-order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in Physical Education and Hygiene.

He joined the Navy in February 1978.

Russell W. Johnston, the son of Mrs. Shirlee H. Johnston of South Dobson, Mesa, Ariz., has been commissioned a second lieutenant through the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program and awarded a bachelor's degree at Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah.

The lieutenant is being assigned to Keesler Air Force Base, Miss. He is a 1972 graduate of Alhambra High School in Phoenix, Ariz. His wife, Connie, is the daughter of Mrs. Yvonne C. McDowell of West Claremont, Street, Phoenix. His father, Thomas W. Johnston, resides at 37130 Judd Road, New Boston.

Navy Yeoman 3.c. Dale E. Philpott, whose wife, Ramona, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville R. Mundy of East Columbia, Belleville, recently departed for an extended deployment in the Mediterranean Sea.

He is assigned to the fast combat support ship US Detroit, homeported in Norfolk, Va., and operating as a unit of the U.S. Sixth Fleet.

During the cruise, Detroit is scheduled to participate in various training exercises with other Sixth Fleet units and those of allied nations. Port visits are scheduled in several Mediterranean coastal cities.

Philpott joined the Navy in May 1973.

Navy Electronics Tech. 2.c. Raymond C. O'Donnell III, the son of Raymond C. O'Donnell Jr. of Belleville, is currently on an extended deployment in the Mediterranean Sea.

He is assigned to the destroyer tender USS Puget Sound, homeported in Norfolk, Va., and operating as a unit of the U.S. Sixth Fleet.

Puget Sound recently visited Gaeta and Naples, Italy, where crewmembers participated in sporting events and local tours.

During the remainder of this cruise, Puget Sound is scheduled to participate in various training exercises with other Sixth Fleet units and those of allied nations. Port visits also are scheduled in several other Mediterranean coastal cities.

O'Donnell joined the Navy in December 1974.

For their own survival

Baby animals: Leave them where they are

You're walking along the edge of a meadow and you find a nest of baby birds recently blown from a tree. Or your dog digs up a nest of tiny rabbits. What do you do?

Your first impulse is to pick up the little creatures and take them home. But this may be exactly the worst action to take.

"Unless you know absolutely that the parents of the little animals are dead, or that the young have been abandoned, it's best to leave them where you find them," said Glenn Dudderar, extension wildlife specialist at Michigan State University. "A young animal's chances of survival are much greater, if you leave it there than if you take it home and try to raise it yourself."

Besides, making wild animals captive violates state and possibly federal laws, depending on the species. In addition to all the work that raising the animal entails, there's the red tape of getting a permit to keep it.

"If you do decide to take in a young animal, you'd better have evidence that it needed assistance," Dudderar emphasized. "The fact that you didn't see the parents around isn't enough. They might have been out getting food or hiding somewhere and waiting for you to leave."

So what should you do? In the case of baby birds fallen from a nest or a nest blown from a tree, you can do the most good for the little birds by placing them back in the nest or replacing the nest in the tree. You have to put the nest back almost exactly where it came from, however, or the parents won't be able to recognize it as their nest.

"It's a common myth that a mother bird will reject a baby bird that's been handled by a human," Dudderar said. "But birds have a poorly developed sense of smell. Like people, they depend mostly on their vision. So, if you put the nest or the baby back where it was originally, they'll find it and resume caring for it."

Baby mammals are another story, he pointed out. If you put a baby rabbit back in a nest, the mother may ignore the scent, or may abandon the whole nest or may kill all the young. A deer wouldn't try to kill her fawn, but she might abandon it. Or, she might just lick it until all traces of human scent were removed.

Sometimes you definitely know that a young bird of animal has been orphaned or abandoned. Before you take on the job of raising it, you'd better be sure you're ready for all the work it will require.

"Any animal or bird that's too small to have fur or feathers yet has to be kept warm, approximately body temperature, to avoid chilling," Dudderar said. "It also needs a humid environment so that it doesn't get dehydrated. The proper food isn't always easy to provide, either."

Birds that are fed by their parents usually can get by on canned dog food rolled into little balls and fed every three or four hours. They also need a daily dose of liquid vitamins. Chicken-like birds — pheasants, quail, etc. — can be fed poultry starter. Birds like doves, which poke their bills into their parents' throats to feed, can be raised on a slurry of pabulum and milk presented in the rubber bulb of an eyedropper.

Hawks, owls and other predatory birds must be fed raw meat with fur or feathers still attached. They need this material to digest their food, Dudderar explained. One way to provide it is to buy dead mice or chicks and chop them up into little pieces for hand feeding.

Baby mammals must be fed prepared infant's formula or one of the powdered milk substitutes for domestic animals. Deer, for instance, do well on calves' formula. If you succeed in raising the animal—in spite of the odds against it—you have to teach it to fend for itself in the wild.

"An animal raised in captivity has to be taught to find its own food," Dudderar said. "A raccoon, for instance—you have to take it to a stream or river, wade along the shallow edge and show it how to turn over rocks to find food. If you've raised a robin, you'll have to take it out on the lawn and scatter some fishing worms around."

"Predator birds have to be taught to hunt. If you don't teach an animal how to get its own food, it may approach humans and try to beg from them. This may be misinterpreted as an attack and result in the animal's being killed."

Animals raised by humans don't have the wild animal's natural fear of people. They need this to survive, once they are capable of caring for themselves. One way to instill distrust is to frighten the animal every time you approach it until it either cringes or threatens to attack whenever it sees you, Dudderar suggested. This will guarantee that it won't try to approach other people and probably be killed because someone thinks its unusual behavior means it's rabid.

"Raising a wild animal to be self-sufficient is just as much work as it sounds," Dudderar said. "But unless you're willing to make that effort, the animal won't survive, and you might just as well have let it be eaten by a snake or a hawk."

"It may sound cruel to say that you should just let the animal die, but death, of young animals as well as old ones, is part of nature's scheme of things."

Garden Corner

Michigan State University Extension specialists answer timely questions on houseplants, vegetable gardening, landscape plants, flowering bulbs and related topics.

Q: The needles on some of my evergreens are all dried out and brown at the tips. Some of the stem tips seem quite dead. What's the trouble?

A: If the plants are near roads or sidewalks that were deiced with salt during the winter, or in an area where salty snow was piled or saltwater seeped into the soil or splashed onto the foliage, you may suspect salt damage. Salt spray damage tends to occur on only one side of the plant. There's not much you can do for the brown foliage or dead tips except to prune them out after growth resumes in the spring. You can prevent further damage from saltwater run-off by watering heavily to leach the excess salt out of the plants' root zones.

Q: What do I do with my potted azalea after it has finished flowering?

A: Keep it in a sunny place and water whenever the soil feels warm and dry rather than cool and moist. Fertilize every two weeks through the summer with a liquid houseplant fertilizer. Add ¼ teaspoon ferrous sulfate once a month to keep the soil acid and to prevent iron deficiency. Pinch new shoots off whenever they have developed two or three vigorous leaves. Do this through June 15 to keep your plant bushy and compact.

After the danger of frost is past — around June 1 — place the plant outdoors in a shaded spot. Continue to water and fertilize it regularly. Bring the plant indoors around Sept. 1, place it in a shaded cool spot — about 50 degrees, if possible. Water as before but decrease fertilization to once a month. The plant should produce flower buds by February. It can then be forced into flower. Place it where it will get plenty of light and temperatures between 65 and 75 degrees.

Belleville farmer nets weekly honor

An area farmer Robert Schultz of Proctor Road, Belleville, has been named Farmer of the Week for the week of April 17 in recognition of his contributions to Michigan agriculture.

The weekly award, which honors farmers in Michigan, is sponsored by the Michigan Farm Radio Network and Farm Bureau Insurance Group.

Schultz, 35, who has been farming for 15 years, is a cash grain and sweet corn farmer. He currently farms over 1200 acres and is a major sweet corn supplier for the Detroit area. He also raises soybeans, corn and wheat.

His involvement in community and agricultural affairs includes director on the board of the Ypsilanti Farm Bureau Elevator; member of the Wayne County Farm Bureau; and past president and current treasurer of the Northwest Community Group.

Recipients of the Farmer of the Week award, who are selected by the Michigan Farm Radio Network and Farm Bureau Insurance Group, are chosen for the quality of their farming operation and for their contributions to agriculture.

Nominations are made by Michigan farm organizations.

The purpose of the Farmer of the Week program is to recognize Michigan Farmers each week for their outstanding contributions to the state and to the agriculture industry.

Foster families: Always a need physical prior to license approval.

In addition, requirements include a "good moral character", a "genuine" willingness to meet the needs of a variety of children, financial stability since the money foster parents received from the state for their services "may not compensate for all expenses." Foster children's medical and dental expenses are provided through Medicaid.

Lastly, the applicant's home must meet the requirements established by the state in regards to available space, sleeping arrangements, and fire and safety standards.

Przybyla said that the investigation is not as thorough as in cases of adoption, but questions are directed to the couple's children, if any.

She said every member of a potential foster family is consulted because involvement in the program turns out to be a "total family commitment."

"Deep personal reasons" is why Mrs. Behringer decided to become a foster parent. Because she was orphaned as a child, the young woman said she can offer fulfillment which she was denied earlier.

Speaking of the money supplied by the state to foster parents, Mrs. Behringer said that the program provides no financial gains.

Przybyla pointed out that foster parents are permitted personal preferences. For instance, the Behringers prefer preschoolers because they are closer to the age range of their own children.

Margaret Karajoff is the CBS recruiter to contact in Wayne County at 833-2100, or at 9851 Hamilton Avenue in Detroit.

Plans ball

Rose Silvey (back row) of Romulus, recently met with Heritage Ball Committee members to finalize plans for the event, held Saturday at Cobo Hall. Sponsored by the ethnic community of Detroit, the ball featured ethnic entertainment, booths displaying items for sale from other countries, ethnic foods, colorful costumes and music for dancing. The committee's Indian maidens included Paula Begay (front row, from left) and Patricia Gardner and Chief Teofilo Lucero. The ball is the highlight of Michigan Week in the city and a prelude to the annual ethnic festivals.

County pleads for funding

Wayne County government renewed its plea for "equity" funding from the state today after depleting its cash reserve fund to meet criminal justice system cost increases.

"The outlays which emptied our unallocated appropriations account are typical of why this county has a financial crisis. They are mandatory cost increases over which we have no control," said Jarrette Simmons, chairman of the County Board of Commissioners.

Simmons headed a county delegation which met with representatives of the Governor and the Legislature in Lansing May 8 to discuss the county's financial crisis.

Her comments came in the wake of a May 4 meeting at which the Board of Commissioners doled out the last of the county's unappropriated cash reserve to meet the following expenses:

(1) $363,420 for additional jail guards to handle a prisoner increase at the Sheriff's detention annex in Westland;

(2) $117,000 to cover Sheriff's overtime costs;

(3) $140,505 to continue through May 28 several Sheriff's units which must be maintained pending an arbitrator's ruling on whether the units may be curtailed; and

(4) $116,407 to settle various legal claims.

Depletion of the county's unallocated appropriations account means that any new expenses will have to be funded by reductions in departmental budgets for the balance of this year, Simmons explained.

The first instance of this came at a May 5 meeting of the County Board's Financial Crisis Committee.

The committee recommended that $344,000 earmarked for furnishing of a new Federally-funded Cooperative Extension Service educational building, now under construction, be used to meet contingencies. Ordering of furnishings will wait until next year.

The Financial Crisis Committee also received a report from the County Board of Auditors, projecting a budget deficit again this year. The deficit could range anywhere from $8.8 million to $12 million, depending on developments, the auditors reported.

"Our budget problem basically results from cost increases which are mandated upon us by law and over which we have no control," she told the committee. "One of the things we have to impress upon Lansing is the critical impact of decisions made there."

Think before mowing, safety engineer says

To avoid accidental injuries caused by power lawn mowers, think about what you're doing!, urges Richard Pfister, Michigan State University Extension safety engineer.

"Most injuries occur when a hand or foot comes in contact with either the rotating blade or an object thrown by the blade," he said. "Some 50,000 adults and children are treated in hospital emergency rooms each year for such injuries."

Avoid injuries from objects hurled by the blades by raking the lawn free of wires, twigs, rocks and other debris before you begin to mow, Pfister advised. Never remove the foot guards or other protective equipment on a mower. Those parts were designed for your protection.

Wear shoes that shield your feet, and handle the mower so that you minimize your chance of pushing a foot under it, Pfister advised. Push, don't pull, a hand mower. If you're pulling it toward you and you slip, you're likely to slide under it and hit the blade.

Mow when the grass is dry, so your footing is secure. Mow across a slope with a walking mower so that you don't slip down into the machine and it can't roll downward onto you. But with a riding mower, mow up and down a slope, so the machine doesn't roll over with you. When using an electric mower, be very careful to avoid running over the cord or entangling it in the mower blades.

Always turn off the machine and disconnect the spark plug wire — or unplug if the mower is electric — when you need to unplug or adjust the machine. You disconnect the spark plug so that a slight rotation of the blade can't cause the engine to fire or restart, Pfister explained.

Fill with gas before mowing. If it's necessary to refuel before you finish, turn the engine off and let it cool before adding fuel. Refuel a power mower outdoors and start it outdoors, rather than in a garage or basement where gas fumes and carbon monoxide would build up.

Many injuries, especially to children, occur when a riding mower backs up. Keep children and pets away from the mowing area, Pfister urged, and look behind you every time before you back up. The only rider on a riding mower should be the operator. Extra riders, especially children, must not be allowed on riding mowers at any time.

If you are shopping for a new power mower, ask about and look for safety features such as:

— Guards to keep hands and feet from coming into contact with the blade.

— A discharge system that reduces the potential for flying objects.

— "Upstops" that prevent the handles from flying upward when the machine hits an obstacle.

— Equipment that is reliable and easy to operate.

Read the owner's manual that comes with the machine and file it where you can find it readily, Pfister advised. Reread it occasionally to keep your memory fresh.

"Don't wait until all else fails to follow directions," he said. "By then it may be too late."

College Week has speech instruction

The meeting is next week. You already have agreed to be on the program. What comes next?

Practical Public Speaking is one class that will be offered at this year's College Week, June 19-22, on the Michigan State University campus.

The class, taught by Gordon Thomas, MSU communications professor, will offer practical pointers on how to analyze your audience, select a topic, gather material and prepare an outline. Participants also will have an opportunity to prepare and give a short speech.

College Week is sponsored by the Family Living Education Program of the MSU Cooperative Extension Service. This year's program, "Family Impact on the Future," is designed to meet the needs of the individual, the family, and the family as it is related to the community.

During the four days on campus, participants stay in a living-learning unit. Classes, workshops and exciting evening programs make up each day's activities.

The more than 50 class options include some of today's most popular issues — the Impact of TV on Children, Survival for the Woman on Her Own, Food - Your Political Concern, Developing Self-Esteem in You and Your Family, Getting a Handle on Community and Organizational Conflict and Stress and Coping.

All of these classes mentioned above as well as more than half of the others offered are being designed for reteaching through the use of Self-Teaching Packets developed for a loan program to volunteer organizations or groups through Michigan State University, Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service.

7A. Motion by McAnally, supported by Block, to adopt Resolution 78-207.

RESOLUTION 78-207

WHEREAS: The Legislature, in 1974, adopted P.A. 198, which provides for a fifty (50 percent) percent real property incentive to industrial entities which either constructed new manufacturing facilities or rehabilitated antiquated equipment; and

WHEREAS: The City of Romulus recognizes and supports the principles established by P.A. 198, and has actively pursued the construction of industrial facilities utilizing said Act. The City of Romulus takes great pride in the fact that it was a pioneer, the frontrunner, the first to utilize P.A. 198 in the State of Michigan; and

WHEREAS: P.A. 198, if utilized to its fullest potential, could produce what might be termed a windfall for the State of Michigan when compared to the benefits derived by local government, in that local government will receive but fifty (50 percent) percent of the potential real estate tax on these facilities, while the State of Michigan receives 100 percent of the income taxes generated by new employment and the recently imposed single business tax; and

WHEREAS: The City of Romulus is assured that the State of Michigan developed P.A. 198 fully intended the bill to be an incentive to retain and attract industrial facilities to locate in the State of Michigan, as opposed to in some of our surrounding states, with no intent of impairing or injuring local government, to provide disproportionate benefits accruing to the State; and

WHEREAS: Mayor William M. Oakley, in behalf of the citizens of the City of Romulus and the State of Michigan, has proposed legislation which would provide for a more equitable distribution of tax revenue generated by the location of industrial facilities utilizing P.A. 198, specifically, a State Sharing Plan whereby a portion of the additional individual income tax and single business tax generated by the P.A. 198 participants would be returned to the municipality, which amount shall be retroactive for one (1) year to partially offset the cost of utilizing said Act.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That the City Council of the City of Romulus does herewith implore that the Honorable Senator William Faust, Senate Majority Leader, proceed with all haste to finalize the drafting of the proposed legislation, and exert all the power of his office to assure that this legislation, which for lack of classification at this time shall be referred to as "The Romulus Act".

SANITARY SEWER SYSTEM

1. Inkster Road - North of Goddard: This project would provide for the installation of a 10 inch sanitary sewer on the west side of Inkster north of Goddard for approximately 1,500 feet. This sanitary sewer would provide service to 13 existing residential units. The estimated cost of this project is $50,000.

2. Border Street - East of Wayne Road: This project provides for the installation of 10 inch sanitary sewers for this residential area located east of Wayne Road and south of Beverly. This project would extend service to 3 existing homes and an additional 14 building sites plus 2 parcels of 6 acres each and 1-10 acre parcel. It is estimated that the cost of this project is approximately $95,000.

3. Beverly Road - Merriman to Columbus: This project includes the installation of from 24 inch to 12 inch diameter sanitary sewer from Ecorse Road to and in Beverly Road from ½ mile east of Merriman Road to Columbus Street. This sanitary sewer would extend service to approximately 600 acres of residential, commercial and industrial zoned properties. It would also eliminate the existing pump station facilities at Columbus and the related high maintenance cost associated with this station. This sewer would also provide the necessary service to the Beverly-Henry Ruff Park that is currently utilizing a storage system that has been given temporary approval by the State Department of Natural Resources.

The cost of this project is approximately $360,000.

4. Ecorse - Wayne Area: This project would consist of the installation of 18 inch and 15 inch diameter sanitary sewers along Ecorse Road and Wayne Road and generally serve those properties immediately east and west of Wayne Road. This project would be of particular benefit to serve the proposed Senior Citizen - Commercial complex located in the 100 acres which this sewer would serve. It is estimated that the cost of this project is $125,000.

WATER DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM

1. Ecorse Road - Ecorse to Beverly: This project would consist of a replacement of approximately 2,600 feet of existing 12 inch diameter water main. This replacement is needed to eliminate the costly repairs and maintenance which are occurring in this area and particularly on New Castle Street. The cost of this project is estimated at $75,000.

2. Merriman Road - Ecorse to Beverly: This project would consist of the replacement of the existing 6 inch diameter water main on the east side of Merriman Road between Beverly and Ecorse Roads. This replacement is needed to eliminate the high repair and maintenance costs currently incurred on this water main. The total project cost is estimated at $80,000.

3. Inkster - Wick Low Pressure Area:

A. Alternate 1 - This alternate would provide for the installation of a new meter pit connection of the City of Detroit transmission main and would improve the immediate low pressure problems experienced in this area. The cost of this project is approximately $25,000.

B. Alternate 2 - This project would include the installation of approximately 3,200 feet of 12 inch diameter water main from Wickham to Venoy. This project would enhance the development of nearly 200 acres of prime commercial area within the City. The estimated cost of this project is $130,000.

4. Ecorse Road - Wayne to Wayne: The proposed General Motors Diesel expansions will generate heavy additional demands on the existing distribution system. It appears feasible that the anticipated increased demands for average conditions can be met with the installation of a 12 inch water main on Ecorse Road between Wayne Road and Wayne Road. It is estimated that the cost of this project would be $40,000.

5. Wick Road - Wickham to Venoy: This project consists of the installation of nearly 1 mile of 12 inch diameter water main from Wickham to Venoy. This project would enhance the development of nearly 200 acres of prime commercial area within the City. The estimated cost of this project is $130,000.

6. Cogswell Road - Ecorse Road: The project is needed to resolve low pressure problems that will be experienced under maximum hour demands which will result from the General Motors Diesel expansions currently underway. This project would consist of a 12 inch diameter water main in Cogswell Road between Wick Road and Ecorse Road. The estimated cost of this project is $150,000.

RESURFACING

a. Huron River Drive - Pennsylvania to Grant - This project would consist of resurfacing this 2½ mile reach of one of the major north-south roadways in the City. This project would be Federally sponsored through the State of Michigan. The City's share of this project would be $61,000.

b. Huron River Drive - Hannan to Grant - This section of Huron River Drive is now in need of resurfacing, and can be expected to deteriorate further from the increased traffic which is occurring since the opening of the I-275 expressway. This project would be Federally sponsored through the State of Michigan. The City's share of this project would be $20,000.

County will hire disadvantaged for summer work

Wayne County expects to hire about 3,000 this year under its summer employment program for disadvantaged youth.

Beginning June 19, the youth will earn $2.65 per hour for eight weeks, with a 10-week option available in some areas.

The temporary work program is called SPEDY, which means Summer Program for Economically Disadvantaged Youth, and is meant to provide employment and training for both in-school and out-of-school youth in Wayne County except for Detroit, Dearborn and Livonia.

SPEDY is one of several programs (Title III) under the Federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act funded by the U.S. Department of Labor. The department is considering $2.6 million for Wayne County by May 26, and "approval is virtually certain."

The Wayne County allocation is part of a federal program in 1978 to provide 1.6 million summer jobs nationwide, primarily for disadvantaged youth aged 14 to 21.

In Wayne County this year the program is administered by the County Intermediate School District under direction of the County Office of Manpower, which handles all CETA affairs in the county.

Detroit, Livonia and Dearborn are excluded because they sponsor their own summer employment programs and receive separate funds directly from the Department of Labor.

Among the goals of SPEDY: — To provide closely supervised, structured work to improve work habits.

— To offer experience that will provide opportunity for vocational growth and give vocational counseling and occupational information.

— To provide income necessary to enable returns to school and induce drop-outs to return.

— To provide a foundation for possible part-time-in-school employment as well as full-time self-support where return to school is not expected.

Included in the classroom training will be courses in recreation leadership, general office and clerical skills, child care, and topics important to medical careers and care of senior citizens.

Those eligible for the program must be economically disadvantaged and 14 through 21 years of age, or be a ward of the court up to age 21 who is considered to have left home, or be involved in another CETA program which required these criteria at the time of enrollment.

Interested youth should contact counselors and employment officers at the schools they attend. All the schools are not recruitment centers for the program, but all schools as well as churches, MESC offices and other youth-serving organizations throughout the county have been instructed where to refer applicants.

Further information is available from Dr. Frank Davis at the Intermediate School District at 326-9300.

Flame violet has chocolate in its lineage

If you have a green thumb with African violets, you're a "natural" for flame violets, including chocolate soldier (Episcia cupreata 'Chocolate Soldier').

Chocolate-brown, quilted leaves with silver stripes down the centers form a mound about 6 to 12 inches high. Given enough light and high humidity, the plant will produce bright red, trumpet-shaped flowers. It will bloom almost continuously under the right conditions.

For success with chocolate soldier and other Episcias, Michigan State University horticulturists advise potting in a mix made of equal parts houseplant potting soil and peat moss. Be sure to provide for good drainage. Do not let the soil dry out between waterings and keep water off the foliage.

Fertilize every four to six weeks with any standard houseplant food.

High humidity and moderate to warm temperatures — with a night minimum of 60-65 degrees — are preferred.

Though this plant can tolerate more direct sun than its cousins the African violets, the MSU experts advise giving it bright, indirect light.

Because of its high humidity requirement, chocolate soldier is a good plant for terrariums. It also is at home in dish gardens and hanging baskets.

A tropical creeper native to Colombia, chocolate soldier is propagated by stem tip cuttings or leaf petiole cuttings.

Common insect pests include mealybugs and white flies.

The Salvation Army — The Army That Fights Despair

Burl Ives, Christmas Chairman

Many people have asked me to explain the work of The Salvation Army. Well, this organization performs so many fine services, at Christmas and throughout the year, that it's difficult to sum it up briefly. Perhaps the best way to describe their efforts is to call them "the Army that fights poverty, loneliness and despair."

The Salvation Army plays a critical role in making sure that the needy are given attention, care and human understanding. Army workers realize that the holiday season can be particularly gloomy for many of our neighbors unless something is done to brighten their lives.

Visitations to hospital patients and prison inmates, gifts to needy children and companionship to the aging and the forgotten are just some of the many ways in which The Salvation Army is building a better tomorrow, today.

Why don't you help by giving generously to your local Salvation Army headquarters?

EMU summer course to go European Fifteen major cultural events, including performances by the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra, the German State Opera, the Marionetten Theatre in Salzburg and the Spanish Riding School in Vienna, will highlight a European cultural history tour this summer sponsored by the Office of International Studies at Eastern Michigan University.

The tour, which begins June 18 and continues through Aug. 4, will be conducted by Emanuel Fenz, a native of Florence, Italy, and a professor in the history and philosophy department at EMU. This is the third year that Fenz has conducted the tour.

Professor Fenz said the cultural history tour boasts a unique blend of cultural happenings emphasizing art, music and history and relating culture to the movement of ideas and the structure of European society.

Fenz stressed that his tour is designed to acquaint participants with European cultural history by taking advantage of an itinerary that is jam-packed with excursions, side trips and cultural events.

"Actually, this is a most fantastic program for the price. Most programs don't offer an intensive schedule of cultural happenings. This tour could very well be the most important experience in a student's life," Fenz remarked.

In the three years that Fenz has guided the cultural history tour, more than 130 students have taken advantage of the program. This summer's program begins in West Berlin and includes visits to East Berlin, Prague, Vienna, Salzburg, South Tyrol, Florence, Rome, Venice, Zermatt and Paris.

Program participants attend operas and concerts and take trips to museums, art galleries, cathedrals and abbeys. An added attraction of the tour is a mountain excursion into the Tyrolean and Swiss Alps. Professor Fenz, an experienced mountain climber, will guide the tour through places of extraordinary natural beauty in the Vienna Woods, the Dolomites and the Swiss Alps.

Although the group will not attempt any rigorous mountain climbing, Fenz noted that one of the prerequisites for tour participants is the ability to shoulder a rucksack.

The EMU tour is conducted in conjunction with Purdue University and Middle Tennessee State University and is open to everyone. The tour price of $988 includes tuition for six hours of undergraduate credit, rail transportation, field trips and excursions, tickets to operas and concerts, insurance and visa fees to East Germany and Czechoslovakia.

"We don't cut corners on any of the cultural events on the tour. We do try to save money on transportation and accommodations where we can," Fenz said.

A special option for tour participants is an extra 20-day post-program excursion to Egypt, Israel, Athens and the Greek Island of Corfu from Aug. 5-25. The post-program is designed to offer participants a highly contrasting cultural experience and is available in two options — a side trip to Egypt and Israel at $488 and a camping experience on Corfu for $298.

The Israeli-Egyptian option will feature trips to the Pyramids, the Temples of Karnak and the Islamic monuments in Cairo. While in Israel, the group will visit sites from the Old and New Testaments, including Jerusalem, Bethlehem and Galilee.

In Athens, the tour will stop at the Acropolis, the Temple of Athena and the Temple of Apollo, in addition to many other sights of interest. The Corfu camping trip is set on one of the most beautiful Greek Islands and will provide a restful conclusion to the trip. Participants will camp not more than 500 yards from the beautiful Mediterranean Sea. Corfu excursions will include tours of the Palace of Achillion built by Empress Elizabeth of Austria, a crusader's castle and a number of monasteries.

For further information on the European cultural history tour, call the Office of International Studies at EMU at (313) 487-2424.

Never to forget

Books alive the past events of history even after personal experience is forgotten. That is why the book "Never To Forget: The Jews of the Holocaust" will be on hand at the Belleville Fred C. Fisher Library so that junior high school-age and older students can read about the annihilation of Jews during the Second World War. The book has been donated to the library by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. Member Ruth Graves (left) took the book to librarian Helen McClatchey. Mrs. Graves also gave books to the high school and junior highs as a gift from the women's peace group, which each year selects a publication to receive the Jane Addams Children's Book Award. — ANP photo by Tom Greenwood.

Park unit requests increase

A committee of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners has approved a plan to increase Sheriff's patrols along the Hines Drive parkway this summer, but the question of where the up to $100,000 cost is going to come from must be answered, if the plan is ever to be implemented.

The request from Sheriff William Lucas, calling for the addition of five two-officer patrol cars to the park patrols on summer weekends was approved May 3 by the commissioners' Public Safety and Judiciary Committee. The proposal calls for the purchase of six patrol cars.

With the county facing a deficit of up to $12 million again this year, the committee referred the funding question to a special Financial Crisis Committee.

That committee, meeting May 5, returned the matter to the public safety committee and directed the committee to identify funding sources from within existing appropriations for the criminal justice system.

WHEREAS: The Federal Government recognizes the plight of local governmental units throughout this nation, and have provided Federal Revenue Sharing Funds in an attempt to supplement the efforts of local government in the meeting of the ever increasing needs of its citizenry; and

WHEREAS: The State of Michigan in its effort to simplify the burden placed on the business enterprise throughout the State of Michigan, passed Public Act No. 228 of 1975, more commonly referred to as the Single Businessman's Tax Act; and

WHEREAS: It is the studies opinion of the City of Romulus that this Act was designed to enhance the posture of our business community; however, this effort has resulted in a disproportionate benefit to the citizens of our community, in that Federal Revenue Sharing is based, among other things, on local effort (local tax levy); and

WHEREAS: The assessment of the Single Business Tax levy relieves local municipalities of the responsibility of levying personal property taxes, resulting in a reduction in the total millage a community levies; subsequently, resulting in a reduction of Federal Revenue Sharing Funds a city receives. In the case of the City of Romulus this loss equals $70,000.00 per year.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: By the City Council of the City of Romulus that the State Legislature take steps forthwith to eliminate this disparity by either appropriating funds equal to those lost by local government and returning same thereto, or through legislative alternatives, which would assure that local government received at minimum the level of revenue it enjoyed previous to the adoption of Public Act No. 228 of 1975.

BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED: That copies of this resolution be forwarded to Governor William G. Milliken, Senator William Faust, Representatives Gary M. Owen and Edward E. Mahalak and all surrounding communities. Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Block, Canejo, Raspberry, McAnally, Cantrell, Carter, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

procedure adopted at the Financial Crisis Committee meeting and designed to put a tight lid on additional appropriations for the balance of the fiscal year. The board's committees will have to recommend funding sources from their areas of jurisdiction when recommending additional expenditures under the Financial Crisis Committee policy.

The Sheriff's office developed the proposal in cooperation with a special 44-member Hines Park Task Force, headed by State Rep. Robert C. Law (R-36th District).

Livonia told her fellow committee members: "This proposal is the result of over a year of study by the Hines Park Task Force into possible revenue sources for additional park security personnel. Since no state or federal funds are available for this purpose, Sheriff Lucas's proposal is the only viable solution to a pressing problem. We can barely make the start of summer deadline at this point."

"While there is little argument among the committee members about the worthwhileness of this proposal," said Killeen, "we must face the depressed state of county finances and act accordingly."

Jobs sought

Foreign language students at Eastern Michigan University are looking for cooperative education experiences as interpreters, translators, writers and analysts in any area of business or industry which requires comprehension of a foreign language.

Recently, the Division of Continuing Education at EMU contacted more than 30 Michigan businesses and industries to let them know that it is expanding its cooperative education program to include students in the arts and sciences, particularly students in the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures.

Jean S. Bidwell, head of the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures, explained that "Eastern is interested in placing our upper division students in co-op jobs in industry, business and government service where their expertise can be of service and at the same time heightened through practical experience."

"Cooperative education gives our students the opportunity to apply theory to a work situation closely allied with their field of study. Ideally, the co-op student is in class one semester followed by a semester of work," Dr. Bidwell said.

Co-op students receive credit for working upon the recommendation of their employer and the approval of the departmental co-op adviser. Students alternate two full semesters of outside employment with two semesters of classroom study.

Foreign language students seeking a cooperative education program are looking for work in foreign consulates, multi-national firms, industries, banks, airlines, import-export firms, publishing houses and governmental agencies.

Businesses and industries interested in participating in Eastern's cooperative education program in foreign languages should call Dr. Jane Moehle, director of cooperative education at EMU, at (313) 487-0407.

The Garden Doctor says...

This week the Garden Doctor talks about:

Q: Is it true that copper sulfate will keep a sewer connection free of tree roots?

A: Yes, this is largely true. Copper sulfate will keep roots in the drain but the normal processes of decay must ensue before roots can be carried into the main sewer. For this reason, copper sulfate is most useful when used preventatively rather than after complete obstruction occurs.

Q: What are the gynoecious cucumbers that are listed in the seed catalogues?

A: These cucumbers have only female flowers which means the yield unusually is high. The standard cucumbers have a combination of male and female flowers.

Q: Is there another opportunity to dechatch the lawn, if we cannot get it done this spring?

A: Yes, late August or early September is another opportune time for deatching and overseeding if needed.

Check into requirements before altering property

(This is one of a series of public service articles explaining in general terms, a provision of Michigan law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law upon their private legal affairs should consult with a private attorney.)

By ATT. GEN. FRANK J. KELLEY

Thinking about doing some work on your beach or out in the water in front of your Michigan lake or river property?

You might be considering dredging or filling a marsh, or part of the underwater bottom land. Or perhaps enlarging or improving a boathouse or, some other structure, digging a channel or doing something else that might change the natural features of your property along the "edge" where land and water meet.

You should know that almost any work you plan to do beyond the "ordinary high water mark", and some kinds of work above that line, require a permit from the Department of Natural Resources under the Inland Lakes and Steams Act or the Great Lakes Submerged Lands Act. If in doubt as to whether your proposed project fits under either of those laws, you should ask the Department of Natural Resources first before proceeding.

The "ordinary high water mark" is a line set by law as being the normal level for a given lake or river. In "wet" years the mark may be out in the water, in "dry" years it could be several feet inland from the existing water level.

The safe thing to do is to check first before you undertake any such work. Consult the Department of Natural Resources or a private attorney before going ahead. Proceeding without a permit can be costly and could involve you in needless expense and delay. You could even be required to undo what you have already done.

Little-known rule saves on SS taxes

By overlooking a little-known rule on tax withholding, many companies and their employees are paying significant amounts to Uncle Sam unnecessarily, according to the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants (MACPA).

The rule gives employers an option of not withholding Social Security taxes on wages or salaries paid for employees who are out sick, provided the employer has an established, uniform sick-pay policy. A similar rule also exempts from Social Security withholding any salary or wages paid under workmen's compensation or disability insurance.

Many employers apparently do not exercise the withholding option, either because they are unaware of it or because they feel the extra bookkeeping would offset the benefits.

For employees whose pay exceeds the wage base subject to Social Security taxes ($17,700 in 1978), there may be no saving from discontinuing withholding during a brief sick period because the tax will be withheld later until the maximum contribution has been collected.

But for most workers, and their employers, with Social Security taxes rising at an accelerating rate, it is becoming increasingly unprofitable to ignore this tax-saving option, the CPA group noted.

To illustrate, the CPAs cite the example of a salaried employee earning $10,400 a year, or $200 a week, who is out sick a total of 12 days in 1978. The example assumes his employer has a policy of allowing 10 paid sick days a year.

Applying this year's Social Security tax rate of 6.05 percent, which employer and employee each pays, the employer can save $24.20 (6.05 percent of 10 days' pay) by not withholding. For a firm with several hundred employees, this type of saving could mount up to thousands of dollars in the course of a year.

The employee, in this example, also will take home an extra $24.20. The Michigan CPAs pointed out, however, that a correspondingly lower contribution is being made to the employee's Social Security account, which could result in a slight, probably negligible, effect on the size of retirement benefits to which he will ultimately be entitled.

In the French manner

Start your own foreign intrigue with a "French Connection" feast from New Orleans' French Quarter. Chicken Bonne Femme is not only a spud superstar, it's one of two leading box office draws at the Court of Two Sisters Restaurant. Jazz it up by using Ore-Ida's frozen potatoes O'Brien and garnishing with bright, freshly steamed carrots. Serve against a backdrop of fresh greenery, flowered tablecloth and flickering candles. Your dinner spectacle will sparkle.

From New Orleans - - Chicken Bonne Femme

What makes a 4-star restaurant shine? Galloping gourmets would say: Quality fare, presented with flair. The simple, made simply elegant. The common, turned uncommonly delicious. Even ordinary meat and potatoes, elevated to extra-ordinary epicurean excellence.

How to uncover the secrets of stardom behind such 4-star specialties? For those globetrotters whose budget allows first-class indulgence, only a first-hand taste of 4-star flair will do. But, what of underground gourmets who more typically travel by armchair? Does a "no frills" budget have to mean "no thrills?"

No reason it should, when you can round out your three square meals with 4-star food. Especially when Ore-Ida Foods, Inc., the premier frozen potato producer, has discovered four famous restaurants willing to share secret recipes for staging superlative specials at home. Among the four famous restaurant names is New Orleans' Court of Two Sisters which offers today's exciting recipe. In weeks to come we will present special dishes from the Old Original Bookbinders in Philadelphia; Chicago's Maxim's de Paris and Seattle's Rosellini's Four-10.

New Orleans prides itself on having produced the most critically-acclaimed cuisine in the United States. The food blends the best from a bouillabaisse of heritages: French, Spanish, Indian and African.

Its food presentation also draws raves. New Orleans is often said to offer "lagniappe" — how should we say? — that "something extra" that comes primarily from its French background. It's most obvious in the legendary French Quarter, melting pot for exotic rhythms, voices and spirits. It's there that the Court of Two Sisters Restaurant has served its unique blend of French specialties with lagniappe since the early 1900's.

A typical French Quarter feast might begin with seafood gumbo and end with a favorite dessert flambe', Bananas Foster. In between, an elegant Court of Two Sisters entree: Chicken Bonne Femme. Adapted to Ore-Ida's frozen hash browns, it's quick to make and partially bake ahead of time.

Chicken Bonne Femme

1 cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 to 2 1/2 lbs. chicken pieces
6 slices bacon, diced
1 tablespoon butter
2 cloves garlic, crushed
3 1/2 cup (1/2 package) frozen Southern style hash brown potatoes or frozen potatoes O'Brien
1 1/2 cup chopped onions (fresh or frozen)
1 1/2 cup water
1/4 cup white wine or brandy (optional)
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Combine flour, salt, poultry seasoning and pepper in clean paper bag. Shake one or two pieces of chicken at a time in bag to coat with seasoned flour.

In large, heavy skillet, saute bacon for 2 minutes over medium heat. Drain off fat; reserve. Fry chicken in skillet, turning until golden brown on all sides - about 30 minutes.

Meanwhile, in 1 1/2-quart shallow casserole, combine butter and 2 to 3 tablespoons bacon fat. Place in oven to melt. When butter is melted, add potatoes to casserole and mix well. Bake at 425 degrees F. for about 30 minutes, until potatoes are golden.

Remove chicken from skillet and arrange on top of potatoes in casserole. Drain off all but 2 tablespoons drippings from skillet. Add onions and garlic to skillet. Saute for 3 minutes. Stir in 2 tablespoons seasoned flour. Slowly stir in water and wine. Cook and stir until sauce just begins to bubble. Add parsley to sauce and pour over chicken. Bake at 400 degrees F. for about 15 minutes to heat thoroughly. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

A very thoughtful homemaker, Jane Searfoss of Belleville, has been kind enough to share a special rhubarb bread recipe which, she says, she discovered over a year ago. She's submitting it at this time since rhubarb is now ready to use.

Centenarian recognized

Mothers and daughters joined together May 5 for their annual banquet at the Community United Methodist Church in Romulus. Among those receiving accolades was Mrs. Ida Stephenson, who at 102 years of age, had no competition in being the eldest mother present. Her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Verniece Stephenson, (right) had the pleasure of pinning on a special corsage from the United Methodist Women in honor of the occasion. Special entertainment for the evening was a performance by the Handbell Choirs from the First United Methodist Church of Dearborn under the direction of Mrs. Shirley Young.

At annual banquet

Betty Gott named Home Arts prez

The 31st year of the Home Arts Club of Belleville was brought to a close at its annual banquet May 8 in Ypsilanti. Twenty-two members attended, their five guests being two former club members, Charlotte King of Ann Arbor and Sally Jones of Monroe; Jan Sumner, Lori Sumner and Cynthia Sam, all of Belleville.

In keeping with the "Travel Trip-tik" theme of the past year, the group's final rendezvous was labeled "Return to Roma" and included a salad buffet and Italian dinner.

For the occasion, Lee Smith penned an original poem which included a verse and copy for each member of the club. Following her reading, club president Charlotte Price announced the names of the newly-elected officers for the 1978-79 club year. Betty Gott, who will hold the gavel as president, will be assisted by Marilyn Prill, vice-president; Elsie Ostrowski, treasurer; Toni Schwartz, recording secretary, and Agnes Elliott, corresponding secretary.

Mary Kosin, who will head up the program committee, will have Avis White, Nancy Trevorvor, Sharlene Tator and Muriel Wolfe to help plan the year's activities.

Mrs. Price then thanked the out-going officers: Betty Gott, Francis Jobe, Lee Smith and Agnes Elliott, for their support during her presidency and presented each with a glass of homemade bar Cheese. She, in turn, received a china cup and saucer from the group to add to her collection as a memento of her year.

Virginia Turney, who chaired the program committee, said a few words of farewell since she will be moving to North Carolina this summer. She, along with Mary Kosin, Avis White, Mildred Baker, Lillian Ray and Lee Smith had presented nine monthly programs for the membership and their guests to enjoy.

The club year began with "Middle East Maneuvers" which featured Ya Shara who demonstrated belly dancing for the evening. Authentic Middle East cookies were made and served along with baklava in keeping with the theme.

Following a club tradition, the group held its annual smorgasbord which was titled "International Summit Meeting" and where a variety of ethnic dishes — meats, vegetables, breads, soups, pastries and desserts — were featured. The highlight of the October evening was a demonstration of the most compact way to pack luggage presented by a representative from American Air Lines.

In November the group traveled to Santa's Green Workshop (Ray's Evergreen Company) for its "Greenland Adventure." With Lillian Ray as their tour guide, members watched as various evergreens were fashioned into Christmas wreaths, door swags and centerpieces. That evening members returned to the home of Virginia Turney for hot refreshments to help thaw the frost from their toes.

For their "Holiday Rendezvous" the club was invited to the home of its president, Charlotte Price, where the executive board had prepared a buffet supper and where gifts were exchanged. As has been the practice for several years, the group prepared handmade or homemade items to present and came up with some very beautiful, novel and interesting gifts.

One of a number of winter storms prevented the January meeting from being held and "The French Connection" (a mini-lesson in French) had to be "dis" connected for the night.

At the February "Travel Agent

Appointment", a representative from an Ypsilanti travel agency spoke to the prospective travelers on the convenience of contacting a travel agency for any planned journeys.

March found members and quite a number of guests (parents and relatives of the performers) in the multi-purpose room at North Junior High School. The program, "Polish Pursuit", featured students of the "Kalisz" Polish School of Language and Culture in a routine of songs and dances. The young artists were later invited to join the club for cookies and punch.

A demonstration of bobbin lace, an intricate work of art, was the highlight of the April "Old World Assembly" which was the final program of the year.

The Home Arts Club is open to all area women 18 and over. Meetings are held the second Monday of each month starting in September. Interested parties may call the new President, Betty Gott at 697-5901, for further information, on joining.

Spices and cooking - they're synonymous

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

Last week, in compiling information for a special spice-herb column, we gave you the list A to M, listing the origin of the spice as well as suggestions for its use. Continuing from where we left off, we give you nutmeg through turmeric in the hopes it will aid culinary artists in their weekly cooking challenges.

— NUTMEG, dried kernel of fruit of the nutmeg tree. Add to cookie, cake, doughnut and pastry dough; sprinkle on fruits and vegetables as well as on milk drinks including eggnog. A touch of it in meatloaf and meatballs is also interesting.

— PAPRIKA, dried pods of sweet red peppers. Often used as a garnish, it adds color to deviled eggs, creamed eggs, white sauces, fish and vegetables. It's especially good in salad dressings and helps to brown chicken, chops and veal. One of the main ingredients in veal paprika or "veal paprikash", the spice has a distinctive flavor and is also great in Hungarian Goulash.

— PEPPER, dried berries of the tropical vine Piper nigrum. This is the world's most popular spice with black pepper preferred in the USA. The white variety, though, should be used when making white sauces or anything light colored so the concoction is not spotted with little black specks. Peppercorns go into marinades, in liquid cooking and in canning and preserving while the ground or cracked variety can be used in just about any meat, vegetable, fish and in most sauces which don't require a delicate touch. Experimenting with pepper is one of the best ways to learn when and where to use it.

— RED PEPPER, pods from pepper plants. Good in deviled eggs, meats, bloody Marys, chowders, spaghetti, pizza, gumbos and Mexican dishes.

— POPPY SEED, seed from plants of the same family that produces opium. Used mainly as a garnish sprinkled on breads, rolls, cakes, pastries and casseroles; mixed in cheese, butter and made into a paste for pastry fillings. It is also delicious when made into a poppy seed cake or added to sweet dressings for fruit salads.

— SAFFRON, dried stigmas of the saffron crocus. Crushed strands of this spice (one of the world's most expensive) may be used in seafood and rice dishes, in yeast breads. Used for color as well as flavor. Use very sparingly.

— SESAME SEED, dried, hulled fruit of sesame plant. Another garnish-type addition, it may be sprinkled over biscuits, breads and waffles before baking; substituted as nuts in candies; great in cakes, dips, stuffings, salads; add to coleslaw or salad dressings for a different touch.

— TURMERIC, rhizome of a plant in the ginger family. Deep yellow, it adds color as well as flavor to egg dishes, chicken, fish, rice, noodles and mayonnaise.

There are also two blended spices which are very popular with amateurs as well as gourmet cooks.

— CHILI POWDER, a mixture of spices. A most common ingredient in Mexican-style cooking (chili con carne, tamales, enchiladas), meats, vegetables, poultry. Add a bit to sour cream or cream cheese when mixing a chip dip. (Chili powder is usually a blend of chili pepper, ground cumin, oregano, salt and garlic.)

— CURRY POWDER, many spices and seasonings. Use sparingly in curry sauces, chicken divan, meats, other poultry dishes, fish, eggs, vegetables, salad dressings. (Blends vary but usually contain coriander, fenugreek, turmeric, cumin, pepper, celery seed, nutmeg, cloves, ginger, cayenne, etc.)

Remember, although you can be creative with spices, the secret is not to overdo it. Measure spices with a light hand. Spices should enhance the natural flavor of foods, not overwhelm them.

Many spice companies publish booklets or pamphlets dealing with their own particular products, the information for obtaining them often printed right on the can, box or bottle. Remember, too, that the library is an excellent source for cook books which feature spice cookery. Delve in, try something different and feel like a reborn cook.

Scouts receive 'faith' medal

Saturday, May 6, was a very special day in the lives of seven Girl Scouts who were presented "I Live My Faith" medals by The Rev. John Buehner during evening mass at St. Aloysius Catholic Church in Romulus.

Recipients were Lori Syer and Debra Yeager of Huron Township Troop 269; Diane Hotchkiss, Julie LaBene, Donna Pasnik and Sherry Pasnik of Romulus Troop 623; and Jennifer Anderson of Romulus Troop 620.

As explained by Girl Scout troop leader Mrs. June LaBene, "This is the official religious recognition program of the United States Roman Catholic Church for Girl Scouts or Camp Fire Girls aged nine to 11.

"The purpose of the 'I Live My Faith' Program' is to provide experiences which support formal religious training and provide an understanding of how the girls live their faith in everyday life. We have prayed together, read scripture together, witnessed baptism and worshipped together at mass. We also completed service projects such as making toys for a children's home, baked goods for homebound neighbors and a banner for the church.

"The medal is a beautiful gold pin inscribed with 'I Live My Faith' embossed with a gold cross. It serves as a reminder of the girls' experiences in working on the program and a symbol of her commitment to living her faith daily through prayer, service to others and a responsible participation in her community."

The program was conducted by Mrs. Diana Pasnik and Mrs. Joan Orgovan, both of Romulus, who took special training in order to become counselors. Their studies with the girls covered a 4-month period, with meetings held twice monthly.

Shower, birthdays on calendar

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

A bridal luncheon at the home of her aunt was the beginning of a series of showers planned for June bride-to-be, Debbie Watko, the future wife of Steve Smith of Wyandotte.

Mrs. Robert Thomas of Middlebelt Road used the multi-colors of spring for her table appointments with a large bowl of daisies, irises, carnations and baby's breath as centerpiece on a pink and white checked tablecloth. Chicken salad, hot rolls, variety of bar cookies, tea, coffee and punch were served, the hostess being assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Barry Marks of Southgate, and her granddaughter, Mary Carole Marks.

Some 29 guests, all relatives of the honoree, played several wedding theme games with awards going to Mrs. Harold Accru of Wayne; Mrs. Joseph Janowski of Wyandotte; Mrs. Eldon Murray of Romulus and Carrie Thomas of Dearborn. The hostess created small baskets of silk flowers for the prize winners to take home.

Debbie's future maid of honor, Diane Crosby of Portage, and the two young ladies who will be flowergirls, Kellie Stearns of Wayne and Mary Carole Marks of Southgate, helped with the gift presentation.

They're grandparents

The Belleville Post Office was all abuzz last week as the news of Gert Smither's new granddaughter was announced to her co-workers.

"Kristin Marie", the cause of all the excitement and the little girl who made grandparents of Gert and her husband, Tom, was born May 7 to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Smither of 1628 Tuttle Hill Rd., Ypsilanti.

Making her debut at 5:30 a.m. at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor, the infant weighed 7 lbs., 7 1/2 ozs. and measured 21 inches.

Kristin, whose mother is the former Debbie Ballard, is also the granddaughter of Mrs. Betty Ballard of Ypsilanti.

She also carries on the family line of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Ballard and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Flemings, all of Ypsilanti; Mrs. Helen McHugh of Lansdowne, Pa. and Mrs. Katherine Smither of Monroe, her great-grandparents.

Family fetes Ruth...

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Kemp Jr. of Belleville Road and Mrs. Charles Dorin of Biggs Street were in North Detroit May 6 to join other members of the family in celebrating the birthday of their niece, Ruth Ciocan of West Dearborn.

Held at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Farcas, who prepared a special birthday dinner, the party included the honoree's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ciocan, and her sister, Jane Ciocan, all of West Dearborn; an aunt, Juliana Ciocan of Royal Oak, and an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Petrasku of North Detroit.

With Ruth accompanying them at the piano, the group enjoyed an old-fashioned sing-along and later saw slides of past family get-togethers.

...and Ron, too

Another gathering of the clan, that of the Hunters, took place Saturday night at the Karr Road home of the Ollie Hunters. The occasion was the birthday of their son, Ron Hunter of Dearborn Heights, who was guest of honor at the special dinner party.

Also on hand for the celebration were the Richard Hunter family of Hull Road and the Thomas Swaffers, also of Hull Road, who had just returned from a 3-weeks vacation in California with their sons, Tom and Fred.

Surprise for Myrtie

It was surprise time last Tuesday, for a May 9th birthday gal, Myrtie Young, who was whisked off to Marshall, Mich. for a special dinner at Win Schuler's by her son, David, and husband, Gaal.

Planned by her son, the outing included flowers wired to the restaurant by the host — and which played a rather important role in the production. It was only through the bouquet that David was able to identify a very special guest for the celebration, a person he'd never met but had heard so much about. It was his mother's former high school classmate, Barbara Cline, and her husband, Vernon, who'd RSVP'd to David's invitation and driven over from Union City especially for the occasion.

There was shocked disbelief on his mother's face, David said, but not a sign of the tears he had expected since the two Union City High School friends had not seen each other in 37 years.

The one promise each made before parting was that it certainly would not be ANOTHER 37 years before they met again.

12th annual Flower Day is May 21

The 12th Annual Flower Day at the Eastern Farmers' Market will be held on Sunday, May 21, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Over 100 growers of flowering annuals and vegetable plants will display their products. Admission is free.

This annual exhibit is the only one of its kind in the United States. It offers home gardeners an excellent opportunity to see the different varieties available, seek advice from professionals and buy the plants they desire.

Horticulturists from the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service will be on hand to answer questions on both flower and vegetable gardening.

The Eastern Market is located at 2934 Russell, just east of I-75 and south of I-94. Plenty of free parking is available.

The event is co-sponsored by the City of Detroit Bureau of Markets, the Metropolitan Detroit Flower Growers' Association and the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service.

VB Garden Club erects plaque

Members of the Van Buren Garden Club gathered at the Fred C. Fischer Library in Belleville May 9 for their annual spring project — cleaning and renovating the library grounds and gardens.

With rakes, brooms shovels and trowels, they cleared the grounds and collected bags of rubbish while Walter Molik, husband of the club president, prepared the foundation for a special plaque which the club was dedicating. Designed and made by the Industrial Arts Department of Belleville High School under the direction of Philip Neupert the plaque is made of redwood and shaped like a shield. Bearing the inscription, "Courtesy of the Van Buren Garden Club", the plaque was erected beside the flowering crab tree planted by the club some two years ago.

With the satisfaction of a job well done, the group left the library garden and met for luncheon at the home of Mrs. Timothy Posthumus. At the business meeting which followed, the Annual Flower Day at Eastern Market in Detroit was discussed with several members planning to attend.

Plans were made for a trip to Mather Botanical Gardens on May 24 with lunch to follow; Mrs. Clifford Smith of South Lyon being in charge of the outing.

Members were urged to write their congressmen in support of Bill HR 39 regarding the conservation of open land in Alaska.

The election of two new officers, Mrs. William Hermann of Ypsilanti, treasurer, and Mrs. Frank Prais of Belleville, corresponding secretary, followed.

The June meeting will be held at the summer home of club president Mrs. Walter Molik at Tioga Lake, with a potluck luncheon to highlight the activities.

After adjourning, the group met briefly at the home of Mrs. Henry Deering where a flowering cherry tree was planted in her yard as a thank you for her work as president of the Van Buren Garden Club. Mrs. Joseph Horste, in turn, was presented with a bird bath in appreciation for her term as vice-president.

She'll answer to 'Jennifer Lynn'

The birth of their third child, a daughter, is announced by Jim and Jeanene Lyson of 35645 Park St., Wayne, formerly of Belleville.

The 8 lb., 12 oz. newcomer arrived at 9:15 a.m. May 5 at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne and measured 19 1/2 inches.

Titled "Jennifer Lynn", she is the new sister of Jimmy, who'll be 6-years-old next month, and Jeremy, who's three.

Her grandparents include a former Belleville couple, Richard and Rita Putman of Northville, and Frank and Helen Lyson of Belleville. She is also the great-granddaughter of Mrs. Mary Lyson of Belleville; Mrs. Rhoda Putman of Charlevoix and John Landers of Sandusky, Ohio.

Jennifer's mother if the former Jeanene Putman.

Poppy days set for May 18-20

Members of Huron Valley Unit 231 of the American Legion Auxiliary along with volunteers will be distributing the red crepe paper poppy in memory of the nation's war dead on May 18, 19 and 20.

Contributions made on poppy day are used by the local unit to aid needy veterans and their families in the community as well as veterans in hospitals throughout the state.

The poppy with its red petals, stamens of black for the clouds of war and stem of green for the future and newness of what it holds available to the public, is the emblem of our veterans who sacrificed their lives that we may live in a free country.

Ballet troupe will present spring fest

The Michigan Ballet Theatre, a performing company that is a member of the Mid-States Regional Ballet Association, will perform its Spring Festival of Dance at 3 p.m. Sunday at Mercy High School, located at 11 Mile and Middlebelt roads.

Feature ballet will be Graduation Ball, a reconstructed ballet staged by Mary Margaret Holt — a principle dancer in the Houston Ballet Company.

The ballet takes place in a formal drawing room of a fashionable girls school in Vienna. Excitement runs high as the girls try to outdo each other and impress the visiting cadets from a nearby military school at their annual Graduation Ball.

The dance company also will perform four additional original ballets — "Slavonic Waltz", "Childson" and its premier performances of "Conversations" and "Rhythm Ritual".

Child Song is a short original ballet based on children's games and their relations to life.

Rhythm Ritual and Conversations are two new original ballets choreographed for the Michigan Ballet Theatre by William Hug. Hug is the head of the Modern Dance Department at Interlochen.

Rhythm Ritual expresses the joy of rhythm. The dancers do the entire ballet to the clapping of various rhythms. Conversations is based on social gesture dramatized and enlarged in dance. The dance is in four sections — Friedly Talk; Questioning Talk; Big Talk; and Gossip Talk.

Tickets are on sale in the Farmington Community Center (phone 477-8404) or by calling 626-1893. They also may be purchased at the door.

Meadow Brook's Pops stars Fielder, Mancini

The Meadow Brook Music Festival, summer home of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra at Oakland University, has announced a Sunday Pops Series, featuring four of the world's greatest pops conductors — Henry Mancini, Andre Kostelanetz, Arthur Fiedler and Richard Hayman.

Mancini will lead off the series on June 25 in "An Evening with Henry Mancini and the Detroit Symphony Pops".

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra also will perform in four additional programs of the 10-week Sunday series. On July 16, Kostelanetz will lead the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in a "Russian-French Pops Evening" with Carole Farley, soprano. The program will include music by Offenbach, Tchaikovsky, light music from the Russian masters and Ravel's Bolero.

Star Ship Encounters is the theme for the July 23 Detroit Symphony Pops with Richard Hayman conducting and Leonard Nimoy, star of TV's famous Star Trek, narrating. The show will include music from "Star Wars", "Star Trek", "Space Odyssey: 2001" and other extra-terrestrial music. A feature of the show will be an unprecedented laser-light show in combination with the concert.

On Aug. 6, the festival will present a Pop Opera Night with stars from the Metropolitan New York City Opera and Chicago Lyric Opera. Ezio Flagello, Enrico di Giuseppe, Louise Russell and Barbara Windham will sing arias and ensembles from the great popular operas including Verdi, "Nabucco" Overture.

On Aug. 13, Arthur Fiedler, one of the most popular pops conductors in the world, returns to Meadow Brook for a concert in his inimitable style with Robert Merrill, leading baritone of the Metropolitan Opera, joining him.

Other specials on the Pops Series will include the return of Up With People, back to Meadow Brook for the third year on July 2. This group of young vital singers and musicians have established a tradition for the Fourth of July weekend at Meadow Brook that has grown in popularity everytime they have appeared.

All Meadow Sunday Pops concerts start at 7:30 p.m. with the exception of the July 9 Virgil Fox concert and the July 23 Star Ship Encounters concert because of their use of lights. The time for those two concerts will be 8:30 p.m.

Ticket and program information is available through a call at the Festival Box Office at (313) 377-2010.

What is that genuine love?

When we think of the word genuine, we think of the definition of the word. Genuine means original; really being what it is said to be; actually coming from the alleged source or origin; real; true; authentic; not counterfeit or artificial.

Well, we live in a world that is extremely busy and fast, and is highly technical; with its sophisticated computers and machinery, it seemingly has no time to love or be loved. Love is presented in Holy Scripture as the very nature of God (1 John 4:8, 16) and the greatest of the Christian virtues (1 Cor. 13:13).

One problem that Christianity has today is to be more authentic. When we are more authentic we are actually more like the Lord Jesus Christ. Love found its supreme expression in the self-sacrifice on Calvary (1 John 4:10). All human love, whether godward or manward, has its source in God. Love in its true reality and power is seen only in the light of Calvary (1 John 4:7-10). Most of Christianity and organized religion today is stressing church affiliation, or denominationally ties. Thank God, in heaven there will be no religious labels. Genuine love is fellowship between persons; it is an act of self-surrender. Salvation was conceived by the love of God. The Father planned salvation; The Son executed it; and The Holy Spirit applies it.

Love is the true point of contact between God and Man. Man is made in the image of God, and the image of God is the capacity of self-surrender. The more kind and loving a person is, the more like God he or she is. A good person prefers others before themselves; a bad person is selfish.

Therefore, when Christians are commanded to love by the Lord Jesus Christ (John 13:34). The command is as much a judgment against unloveliness as it is a prescription to be lovely. The word love is being abused in our society today, because the world at large is defining it as "lust". This kind of love never lasts or satisfies. This kind of love is only temporary. What the world is really looking for is a love that fulfills. People today are not looking to organize religion, for this love, because most of us are caught up in the "My church is better than your church syndrome."

The world needs to have the genuine love of God from the Holy Bible expounded to them in simple loving terms. The bible talks much about love, we must apply this to our daily lives, so that people will see Christ in our life. I would rather have people see the Lord Jesus Christ in myself, rather than my religious affiliation. The Christian must love God supremely and his neighbor as himself (Matthew 22:37-39). He must love his enemy as well as his brother (Matt. 5:43-48). Our love toward others must be "without hypocrisy" (Romans 12:9) and be in deed and truth (1 John 3:18). Love is the bond uniting all the Christian virtues (Col. 3:14). Only when we become a servant, and a child, can we begin to realize what genuine love really is.

needs to have genuine love of God...*

Coordinates ADF

Father William Pettit of St. Norbert Parish, Inkster (left), and John Lochrie of St. Anthony Parish, Belleville, are coordinating the 1978 Archdiocesan Development Fund (ADF) for the Western Wayne Vicariate of the Archdiocese of Detroit. The annual drive now is underway in every parish and mission of the archdiocese. It proves the funds for ongoing works of religion, education and charity in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Monroe, Lapeer and St. Clair counties. Cardinal John Dearden, archbishop of Detroit, has announced a minimum goal of $2,150,000 for the 1978 ADF. This represents an increase of approximately 7 percent over last year's total in pledges and cash. Parishes in the Western Wayne Vicariate contributed $56,867 to the 1977 ADF. The Vicariate is made up of the parishes of Divine Savior, Plymouth; Holy Family, St. Kevin, St. Norbert, Inkster; St. Bernadine, St. Damian, SS. Simon and Jude, St. Theodore, Westland; St. Camillus, Eloise; St. Dunstan, St. Raphael, Garden City; St. Mary, Wayne; St. Richard, Westland; St. Aloysius, Romulus; St. Anthony, Belleville; St. Stephen, New Boston; St. Thomas a' Becket, Canton.

Auction benefits crippled

What do Detroit's Mr. Belvedere, Marilyn Turner, Bob Talbert and Ron Kramer have in common with Salvador Dali, Norman Rockwell, Peter Max and Leroy Neiman?

They will be working together for the kids at the Metropolitan Society for Crippled Children and Adults on Sunday, when the newly re-opened Rdisson Cadillac Hotel in downtown Detroit hosts a gala Celebrity Art Auction. Proceeds will help the society's efforts to provide therapy and counselling for the physically handicapped.

Maurice "Bud" Lezell, better known as Mr. Belvedere, brings his "we do good work" philosophy to the aid of the society's cause as he heads and impressive list of Detroit area personalities who will offer the art work in open competitive bidding.

Other celebrity auctioneers will include Bob Allison, Diane Edgecomb, Jim Fitzgerald, Bob Talbert, Joyce Garrett, Marilyn Turner, John Kelly, Rosetta Hines, Fred Girard, Pete Waldmeir, Ron Kramer, Marilyn McKay and Don Riley.

The auction will be held in the Crystal and Founders Room of the hotel, with cocktails and an art preview scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. Admission is free.

THEN and NOW

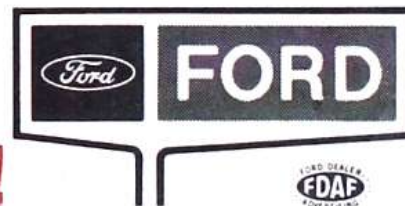

THEN: In early America men who kept order in the streets were known as watchmen. A town's citizens were drafted for service just as soldiers were drafted for military duty. Watchmen worked only at night; they spent their days at other employment to support their families. During the daytime there was no protection of any kind for citizens or their property.

Regionals beckon prep track teams

Top 3 finishes to qualify for state finals

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

The wild pursuit for coveted regional track medals begins this weekend across the state as high school teams head into the stretch of the 1978 season.

Attached to some of those regional honors will be tickets to the state finals and all the athlete will have to do to assure himself of a shot at the state titles is to finish among the top three in each of the 13 individual events or be a member of a relay team that winds up first, second or third.

The regional championships will be decided on Saturday and most area Class A teams will compete at Farmington High which will host the four Livonia high schools: Churchill, Franklin, Bentley and Stevenson; also Wayne Memorial, Westland, John Glenn, Plymouth Canton, Plymouth Salem, Garden City East, Garden City West, Farmington Harrison, North Farmington, Lathrup Village, Southfield High and Northville.

The area should reap more than its share of accolades as performances during the season have been exceptional, despite the unseasonal cold and persistent rains.

Among those who should have no difficulty qualifying for the state are Livonia Churchill's Scott Kappler whose vault two weeks ago of 14 feet, 6 inches equaled the state's best effort. Also keep an eye on Belleville's Chris Koger. Though Koger, like all athletes is vulnerable to choking up during crucial meets, his 22 feet, 1 inch leap in the long jump as well as a 6 feet 5 effort in the high jump sets him up as a premier qualifier for both events. Romulus' Donald Grandison, who cleared the bar at 6 feet, 8 inches carries the area and the Eagles' hopes in the high jump.

Churchill also has a sterling performer in the discus. A senior, Dave Kielty, has hurled the discus 163 feet, 7 inches, less than three-feet short of the state's best. Also, Plymouth Salem's Bob Dasher could team with Kielty to provide the area with a 1-2 punch in both the discus and the shot put. In the later Kielty had a put of 54 feet, 1 1/2 inches while Dasher has tossed the shot 51 feet, 1 inch.

The one and two mile runs?

Keep your eyes on Wayne Memorial's Rick Blaha, Doug Tolson and Churchill's Tobin Jones as well as a sophomore from Cherry Hill, Ramon Lara, who could be the next Class B state champ in the two-mile.

There will be many other names that will make the headlines in next week's edition.

That is, if only the weatherman will give the young athletes a break.

Hanson blanks Belleville, 4-0

Rains washed out all except one of Belleville High's baseball games last week and Tiger skipper Dan Fisher probably wouldn't have said anything if that game hadn't been played.

In their return encounter, Belleville ran up against a fast-throwing Dearborn senior Jay Hanson who shut out the Tigers 4-0 to avenge an earlier loss to the Belleville ball club.

"Hanson was sharp," Fisher said. "He had perfect control, but we helped him along by committing four errors. Three of their four runs were unearned."

Hanson, staked to two runs in the first inning, received an additional two in the fourth. A southpaw - the first Belleville has faced this season - fanned 15 and held the Tigers to two harmless hits.

Terry Cole suffered the loss, going the distance. He struck out five, didn't walk any and threw a six-hitter.

"Our hitting has just stopped," Fisher pointed out, "and I have to believe it's because there is a lack of continuity in our practice. Because of the rains we have been forced inside and it's very difficult to go indoors once you've been outside."

The loss also dipped Belleville's Suburban 8 Conference record to 3-4 on the year, while they are 6-4 overall.

At home to Livonia Bentley today (Wednesday), Belleville was rained out Monday against Edsel Ford and Tuesday against Plymouth Salem. They'll be on the road to Trenton on Thursday and travel to Romulus on Friday.

Hardy's credos

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

There was a reaffirmation in the Romulus School District and at Romulus high recently that deserves some attention here.

It is and was common knowledge that Ed Baum, the venerable athletic director at the high school, had resigned his responsibilities because of failing health.

And only a few managed to catch the familiar name of Baum's successor because the story appeared on the front pages of our edition in that city.

The heir-apparent to Romulus' athletic destiny has fallen on none other than Bill Hardy, who is dedicated "to build a first class all-around program in the school district."

"First, I want it known that in accepting the position as athletic director that I don't feel the program has declined," Hardy announced. "The potential for an excellent program is here and we have good people - students, athletes, administration and coaches."

"And I will go anywhere, talk to anyone at anytime to discuss how we can build a better program," Hardy continued. "I feel we need a commitment from the community as well as everyone involved to move ahead."

The 33-year-old Hardy and his family are returning to Romulus after stints as assistant coach at Grand Valley and Western Michigan. Bill left the prep scene from Romulus in 1973 after coaching the Eagles' football squad for three years. He helped build Grand Valley's grid forces with local talent which included the likes of former All-Area gridders Darryl Gooden, Herb Miller and Henry Reid.

Bill remained in the Grand Valley camp until 1976 when he was lured to Western Michigan University as an outside linebacker coach on Coach Elliot Uzelic's staff.

An outstanding high school athlete, Hardy earned letters in football, basketball, baseball and track at Detroit Pershing University of Michigan football fans will remember him as a defensive tackle during the Bump Elliott era (1964, 65, 66).

Sports and athletics have been an intricate part of Hardy's life and he understands the psychology of the athlete, especially the one whose mesomorphic frame holds an empty shell for a head.

"No one will be bigger than the program," warns Hardy. "That includes student, coach, and myself. Students who want to be athletes must learn that they are students first and athletes second. And what good is an outstanding athlete if he can't read or write or communicate? Our job will be to demand high academic standing as well as good sportsmanship from all those whose lives this school and school district touches."

But Hardy realizes that a first class program isn't developed through words, he says, but through action - "and a concerted effort by all of us."

He sees two immediate goals as his objective and they are: building a first class program not only in one sport, but in all sports; and finding a competitive league.

Romulus has been "leagueless" since the disbanding of the old Twin Valley. Moreover, area leagues have shied away from accepting the school without specifically offering concrete reasons.

Hardy also has on the drawing boards a program designed to

Ready to unleash one of the pitches that earned him a 5-1 victory over Fordson is Wayne southpaw Jim Canfield who has kept the Zebras in the thick of the Great Lakes 8 Conference title race this season. The undefeated hurler notched 10 strikeouts, walked one and scattered six hits to help build the Wayne league record to 5-4. Canfield, groomed as one of the top prep pitchers in the state this season, has won all six of his starts thus far and is a key factor in the Zebras' bid for a district championship.

Canfield's 5-hitter lifts Wayne past Fordson, 5-1

With the chips down, Wayne is in a 'can't afford to lose baseball situation.'

The final surge for the Great Lakes 8 Conference championship was to take place this week, but the weatherman, as he has done all season, has kept the teams in a "holding pattern."

"We have some key games scheduled this week," said Wayne Coach Jim Chronowski. "We like to say that we'll play them one-at-a-time, but the weather won't let us even do that."

Wayne went into the rainy week with a 5-4 conference and a 11-6 overall record and had a couple of teams like Lincoln Park and Taylor Center to play earlier in the week. But because of the weekend rains and Monday's drizzle it is doubtful that they will be played.

On Thursday the Zebras head for Monroe, a team that is looking down at the rest of the league. The Trojans are seated first and Wayne needs to win if it hopes to get a share of the championship.

Meanwhile, Wayne southpaw Jim Canfield kept the Zebras in the midst of the title battle with a superb 6-hitter against Fordson. Canfield fanned 10, walked one and went on to defeat the Tractors 5-1. Losing pitcher Dave Lane lasted five innings. He gave up a two-out homer to Doug McGill who chased home Ray Layton. Layton had walked to get aboard.

Larry Vojtkofsky collected three hits in four trips to the plate, and batted home a run, and the defense got its share of accolades as Dave Stano, replacing the injured Larry Smart in left field, made a spectacular catch of a well-hit ball that had extra-bases written all over it.

Wayne will toss its proverbial hat into the ring for a district title on May 23 when the Zebras travel to Ann Arbor Pioneer for their pre-district qualifying game.

Tennis regionals next

With the rain-marred tennis season nearing its climax, area high school teams will head to various sites across the state to compete in regional tournaments.

The Class B conglomeration at Grosse Ile will include notables as Cherry Hill, the undefeated Tri-River Conference champ, Inkster, Dearborn Heights Robichaud and a field of 10 other squads.

The regional tournaments will be held on Friday and the survivors will qualify for the state finals scheduled for a week from Friday.

In order to qualify for the state a team must finish among the top two at the regional. If a tennis player doesn't belong to a regional winner or runner-up, but wins the No. 1 singles competition, he also will have the opportunity to play for the state championship.

However, the No. 2, 3-4 singles, along with the doubles winners will not qualify unless, of course, they belong to the winning or second place teams at their respective regionals.

Spartans suddenly explode

The persistent rains may have choked a lot of teams and thrown them off pace, but not Cherry Hill.

Coach Ken Mientkiewicz' Spartans swooped down and edged Southgate 4-3 in the eighth and whacked Melvindale 11-6 to bring their Tri-River Conference up to 5-3.

And with Dearborn Heights Riverside's unexpected but welcomed (by Cherry Hill, anyway) defeat of previously undefeated conference champ, Taylor Kennedy, it's a whole new ballgame as the saying goes.

"The rains have hurt most of the teams," said Mientkiewicz, "because we just can't get any consistency, but we're fortunate, I feel, the kids are coming around hitting-wise and our pitching is holding up."

Like their counterparts across the state, Cherry Hill will have a busy week. They were scheduled to play Taylor Kennedy on Monday - but rains took care of that game. Then, on Tuesday, the Spartans have Schafer on the agenda, Garden City West on Wednesday, Riverside on Thursday and wrap up the week with out of the league rival, Claren-ceville.

Obviously, rains could easily wipe out all of their plans.

Southpaw Mike Doyle picked up his first victory of the season in relief of Jerome Potvin who worked 6 2-3 innings against Southgate before Mientkiewicz decided to give him a rest.

In the seventh Southgate tied the game and Cherry Hill came back in the top of the eighth and scored the winning run on lead off double by Mark Buck, an intentional pass to Ron Sosnowski and an infield dribbler by Don Boren, which allowed Buck to score.

Doyle fanned two of the three batters he faced in the eighth and got his last out on a grounder.

Southgate, which collected seven hits, took the lead in the first when they scored their initial run, but the Spartans came back and erupted for two of their own in the fifth on a lead off single by Jeff Blek, a single by Larry Baker and Tim Hoffer's three-bagger. Baker was left stranded when the next two batters flew out.

With one-away in the sixth, Doyle doubled and Blek singled him home to account for the Spartans' third run.

Potvin struck out seven and walked four. He also gave up all three runs and seven hits.

Losing pitcher Brian Peschinski went the distance, fanned three and walked four.

Cherry Hill exploded for five runs in the second inning to bury Melvindale 11-5 as Rick Searcy and Mark Buck combined on a six-hit pitching performance. Searcy

Franklin whips track title pretender

Livonia Franklin lashed out against would-be title pretender North Farmington and subdued the previously undefeated challenger to tighten its grips on the Northwest Suburban Conference track throne.

Coach Bob Holmes' Patriots held off North 85 1/2-72 1/2 to keep their league record untarnished and maneuver into position for the league championships with a 4-0 record.

Franklin would have to finish second or lower to jeopardize any part of the conference title. The Patriots will host the annual league gathering on May 24 at 6:15 p.m.

They will be shooting for their second straight title and their fifth championship since Holmes took over as coach in 1968.

"I was extremely pleased with the victory," Holmes commented. "At one point I felt we were in real trouble when they swept the first three places in the 100 and went up 45-37."

"However, we came back immediately and dominated the high hurdles and the quarter-mile which turned the tide in our favor."

Holmes pointed out that "his team's depth - the Patriots captured

If the weatherman would just cooperate, scenes like the one above would be numerous at the inviting Lemontree Golf Course located at 48356 Denton in Belleville. Lemontree is also the scene of this weekend's Big Brother-

Big Sister "Hole-in-One" contest. Lucky golfers, with one stroke, can help the worthy organization and may come away with some valuable prizes.

You've probably seen the commercial many times: the good-looking, corporately-dressed young man walking out of an office building, slowing taking off his jacket, necktie and eventually leaping on a motorcycle and "getting away from it all."

Well, there is place that is just minutes away from you, which is inviting to the average or seasoned golfer — it's Lemontree.

A straight shot off the 1st. tee takes the golfer along the applegrove-lined fairway, and the natural beauty continues from that point on. There's a pretty little Par 3 hole over a winding brook and a number of fairways beside natural ponds which wildfowl and beaver call home.

accomplished by playing at Lemontree.

If clothing, equipment or lessons to sharpen your game are what you require; then golf professional, Gordie Sullens is the man to see. The newly-appointed head pro at Lemontree, Sullens is one of the youngest pros in the state. The appointment is a fine tribute to his skillful teaching abilities and considerable knowledge of the game.

Gordie is anxious to make new friends and give you helpful suggestions to increase your enjoyment of the test of golf. He has made fine progress with many beginners, both men and ladies, and he and his able staff are ready and willing to serve you and your golfing needs.

In addition to all of these fine facilities, Lemontree provides a driving range with natural grass tee areas. Just the thing for your game's spring tune-up.

So, if you're playing a little more but enjoying the game less, give Lemontree Golf Course a try. You won't find a finer 9-hole course around — or a more accommodating staff to help you and your game.

Oh, one final reminder—we suggest that you call 699-2800 and reserve a tee time.

KEVIN KASETA

Lemontree and Don's Executive Golf Club in Belleville along with Hawthorne Valley in Westland will be among the participating golf courses for the national "Hole-In-One" weekend sweepstakes, organized for the Big Brothers-Big Sisters Inc., fund drive.

Big Brothers-Big Sisters will have volunteers at the courses on Saturday and Sunday, May 20-21 to register golfers for the National Sweepstakes.

The drawing will take place in June for a trip for two — all expenses paid, on American Airlines to the McCormick Golf Ranch in Scottsdale, Arizona.

Hundreds of other valuable prizes (Continued on 4th Sports)

Kevin Kaseta, ex-Livonia Franklin all-state cager who helped University of Detroit regain national prominence in basketball the past four seasons, received yet another honor last week.

The 6-8 senior received the annual Wall Street Journal Award, presented by Dow Jones Company during the U of D's College of Business and Administration Honors Convocation held in early April.

Kaseta, a graduating senior and past captain of the Titan basketball team, was chosen by the U-of-D Business and Administration College's Administrative Council for his achievements as an accounting and finance student.

The son of Anthony and Wanda Kaseta of Livonia, Kaseta was a member of the U of D Centennial Committee and the Religious Identity Commission. He was also a member of the Dean's list for eight semesters and received the Dean's Scholarship Certificate in 1977 and 1978.

His award, which includes a plaque citation, medal and a year's subscription to the Wall Street Journal, was presented by Dr. Rikuma Ito, Dean of the U of D College of Business and Administration.

Rouge ends Inkster '9's streak at 4

As the rivalry between Affirmed, recent winner of the Kentucky Derby, and Alydar, his protagonist, is far from over, so be it with Inkster and River Rouge.

Rouge, a thorn in the Vikings' sides, remained just that last week as pitcher Tommy Keen baffled Inkster's heavy artillery and subdued the previously undefeated Suburban Athletic Conference champs 2-1.

Though the loss — the first for Coach Preston James' crew in the SAC — didn't reflect on the Vikings' first place status — they're still atop of the league with a 4-1 record, it did however give renewed hope to the rest of the mob.

"We're still in first," said James.

not distraught over the loss because "we played well", but concerned over the closeness of the race. Ecourse is either the co-holder of first place or a half-game out, (depending on what it did last Friday).

Tony Smith had everything under control until the bottom of the seventh when he gave up the winning run on a pair of singles and a sacrifice bunt. Smith sustained the loss, getting eight Rouge batters on strikeouts and walking none.

Keen, who notched six whiffs and also walked six was the winner.

One of the problems Inkster had was coming up with the key hit, according to the Inkster skipper.

"We stranded seven men on base and committed three errors — that was the difference in the game," James said.

After four scoreless innings, Inkster broke the deadlock in the top of the fifth as Stacey Bostic drew a walk, stole second and third and raced home with the go-ahead run when the third baseman fumbled the throw.

But Rouge came back and tied it up in the bottom of the inning and then waited until the last inning to hand Smith his first league setback of the campaign.

Keen gave up a third inning single to Willie Garris and Al Dukes laced a seventh inning base hit to account for all of the Viking hitting.

There was good news on Thursday, though, for Inkster fans. The Vikings bounced back behind Vincent Parker's two-hit pitching performance to shut out Highland Park 1-0.

Parker, the No. 1 thrower a year ago, had arm problems at the beginning of the campaign, but apparently is working out the kinks. He notched nine strikeouts, gave up singles to pitcher James McCall (in the sixth) and Dave Bruntini (in the first inning) in chalking up his first win of the season.

The Vikings struck for a run in the bottom of the second and made it stand up for the victory. In that frame, Parker walked, stole second, then was doubled home by designated hitter Darryl Smith who whacked the ball to left center.

Canton continues pursuit for first track victory

Persistent in their pursuit for at least one dual meet victory for their rookie track coach, Plymouth Canton will regroup after a battering 121-42 loss to Waterford Mott to take on Northville at home on Thursday.

If Mike Tiano's Chiefs fail in their mission against the Colts, they'll need a miracle to stop their final Western Six Conference rival, Livonia Churchill.

Undefeated Churchill is steaming toward another league championship and it's doubtful that Coach Fred Price's Chargers will tolerate any nonsense from Canton.

"We just don't have the depth," pointed out Tiano after his team's fifth consecutive setback. "We have a few athletes who can win for us, but nothing to complement them."

Tiano singled out a "group of hard-working underclassmen including Mike Talaga, Dave

Spitz is a two-mile and miler, while Talaga set a freshman record for the mile with a 5:04.0 effort. Greg also specializes in the distances.

Canton salvaged four of the 16 first places against a depth-laden, tough Waterford Mott contingent. One of those went to Brent Eckles who eclipsed the school mark for the 100-yard dash when he finished first in 10.4.

Canton's Rich Fletcher contributed two of the four events as he ran his best time of the season in finishing first for the 220 (23.2), and was clocked in a respectable 53.7 for the quarter.

Blaha continues his record breaking assault on the mile

Pardon the simile, but Wayne's track team has a lot in common with it - warm one day, cold the next. But Coach Ernie Righetti's Zebras definitely were warmed up for league rival Wyandotte last week as they chalked up their third Great Lakes 8 Conference dual meet victory, 96-59.

"It seems the warmer the weather gets, the better we perform," Righetti revealed. Unfortunately, neither Righetti or his colleagues have any control over the weather.

However, Rick Blaha remained in control of the two and one mile events as the Wayne senior led two of his teammates across the two-mile finish line with a relatively slow 9:58.2. (Blaha has been clocked in 9:17.2 for the two mile, the best the area has produced this season.)

Blaha turned right around and ran a 4:22.3 in the mile to shatter Wayne's record in that event. He took down Walt Novack's mark from the boards (4:23.3).

Wayne, which piled up 10 of the 16 first places against the Bruins, also received a noteworthy effort from Tim Quaintance in the high jump. Quaintance cleared the bar at 6 feet, 2, a personal high which gave him and his team a first place.

Ron Mason also had an outstanding run in the half-mile as he turned in a record-breaking 1:57.1 which eclipsed Roy Reges' 1:57.8 mark.

The victory raised Wayne's league record to 3-2-1 with one meet to go. The Zebras will bring the curtains down to the dual meet season on Thursday at Riverview.

Romulus splashes '2' victory

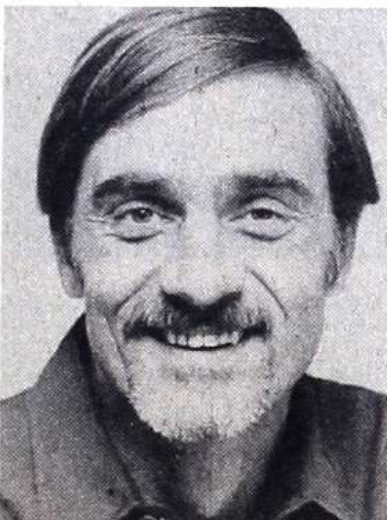

Undistrubed by the annoyances caused by incessant rains, Romulus swept a double dual track meet last Thursday against two noteworthy Jackson teams to build up an enviable 7-1 won-lost record for the 1978 campaign.

Coach Al Wilkerson's Eagles clipped Jackson Western, 80-72, and won an overwhelming 111-41 decision over Northwest.

It rained persistently during the meet, Wilkerson pointed out, "but when you win you don't mind it so much."

"Everybody did their job," Wilkerson continued, "and I'm really pleased."

Romulus has now won 21 of its last 24 dual meets and has Clarenceville and Monroe, the present Great Lakes 8 League leader, in its path before the Class A regional meet.

BARRY BASEL

Rockets surprise coach

When John Glenn track coach Barry Basel reflects on the 1978 season he will probably single out the victory over a highly-regarded Livonia Churchill team as the highlight of the campaign.

"I just don't believe we did it," said Basel after the Rockets shot down the undefeated Western Six Conference champ in an out of the league entanglement, 84 1/2-73 1/2. "I just can't believe we beat them. Our entire squad was way up for them and winning all three relays was definitely the difference."

Glenn also received a double victory from versatile Greg Houffley who leaped 20 feet, 1/2 inch in the long jump and ran a 54.5 for the quarter-mile.

The meet was an excellent tuneup for Northwest Suburban rival, Redford Thurston who was no match for the Westerlanders. Glenn won its second league meet in four starts 99 1/2-58 1/2.

Checking in at first base

While Fordson's John Boyle stretches for the ball that didn't get to first on time, Wayne Memorial's Doug McGill touches the bag to get aboard on an error. McGill later hammered a two-run homer to erase a 1-0 deficit and help pave the way for a 5-1 victory over the Dearbornites. The victory kept Coach Jim Chronowski's Zebras in the thick of the Great Lakes 8 Conference title race which was delayed again earlier in the week because of the persistent rains.

coach Joe Grasley, was that they would try to survive and "do the best we can with an underclassmen-dominated team".

"We figured that the loss of so many seniors to graduation, plus some disciplinary problems would take the sails out of our 'ship.' (Continued on 4th Sports)

Only the rains are stopping Patriots' quest for N-W title

While Coach Ron Hellier charts the course that Franklin's Patriots must take to win the Northwest Suburban Conference baseball title, rains have disrupted the quest momentarily.

Franklin's showdown with North Farmington for the league lead was delayed and the two co-leaders are scheduled to play a doubleheader today (Thursday) at the Franklin's field.

"The kids are anxious to play ball," said Hellier. "But this rain is playing havoc with everything. We're batting .296 as a team for the first 12 games, but I'm afraid that the rains will dull our hitting."

Franklin pounded out six hits and survived three errors to edge Redford Union 4-2 last Thursday in their only game of the week. The nonleague victory boosted Franklin's record to 8-4 on the season. They carried a 5-1 league mark into the week.

Ken Webster remained undefeated as he chalked up his third win at the expense of the Suburban 8 Conference representative. The junior righthander (3-0) struck out seven and walked three.

Franklin fell behind 2-1 in the bottom of the fourth, but a single run in the sixth tied it up and two runs in the eighth were the difference.

In the bottom of the seven the game looked as if it was well in the R.U. victory column when Bill

In the extra inning, Gary DeYonker got the Patriots going with a walk. He was erased at second when Jim Kuazara was safe on a fielder's choice. a single by Jim Wilson, followed by Chris Baker's sacrifice fly which scored Kuzara and Ron Reeter's single settled the issue.

Baker's single in the sixth after Wilson's base hit and a stolen base accounted for Franklin's second run. The Patriots took a 1-0 lead in the second on Baker's first base hit of the game, a single by Reeter and Ron Schwab's sacrifice fly which chased home Baker.

Romulus rained out

It's a rare week, indeed, when Romulus doesn't play a baseball game during the regular season.

But that's what happened last week as rains cancelled the scheduled games between Coach Dennis Stoh's Eagles and Garden City East and Oak Park.

"If we're not careful the weather may just cancel the entire season," quipped Stoh who was echoing the sympathy of most of the area coaches.

There is one date that Stoh and the Eagles would like to keep. They have a pre-district game scheduled for May 26 against Belleville at Belleville. Belleville won an earlier encounter, 7-4, but then the Eagles didn't have their ace hurler, Mike Marsiglia, who was injured, in the line-up.

John Glenn pours it on Thurston, 13-0

Westlanders whack league rivals, behind McKenzie's 3-hitter

While most area baseball coaches were adjusting their snorkels and getting out their scuba equipment, Westland John Glenn managed to play three games last week.

Or were they swimming meets? Whatever they were Coach Norm Hoenes' Rockets dunked Thurston 13-0 behind Ralph McKenzie's three-hit pitching, but the Westlanders dropped a 3-1 decision to Northwest Suburban Conference co-leaders, North Farmington.

On Friday, St. Aquinas edged the Rockets 5-3 in a nonleague.

"The kids have shown that they can hit the ball," said Hoenes, "and if we can get a bit of consistency from the weather as well as the players, I think we'll be tough to beat in the stretch."

Glenn was scheduled to play Monroe, the Great Lakes 8 Conference leader, in a pre-district playoff game which would determine who would be represented at the district tournament. However, weather conditions place a big question mark on the game. It would have to be rescheduled.

North Farmington avenged its lone league loss by touching Pat Kaltenbach for a pair of runs in the first and an insurance run in the fifth.

The junior righthander fanned three and walked three as his personal record dipped to 1-4 on the season. Winner Barry Balbes gave up six hits and walked one, missing the shutout when Glenn scored in the bottom of the sixth on John Mervyn's single, a walk to Tim Ruark and Mark Caesarz' RBI single.

McKenzie, a righthander who is boasting a 0.58 ERA, scattered three hits to chalk up the victory over Thurston. He had ample hitting support from his mates who whacked loser Brain Kurnick for 16 safeties and routed him from the mound in the fifth.

Jim Irwin latched on to five hits in as many trips and collected seven runs batted in and scored twice. Three of his hits were doubles. Craig Walker contributed to the Glenn victory with three hits in five appearances and also scored four times. Mervyn went two for two.

Aquinas erupted for three runs in the bottom of the fourth to erase a 2-1 deficit and went on to edge the Westlanders 5-3. Jim Demaray, who held the winners to three hits, suffered the loss. His record dipped to 2-2.

Glenn nearly pulled it out in the seventh when, with one away, Irwin doubled. Mervyn walked and Rick Robinson hit back to the pitcher who bobbled the ball momentarily, loading the bases.

However, winning pitcher Dave Warrington settled down and got the next three batters he faced.

The Rockets took the lead in the second when they went ahead 2-1 on a walk to Ruark who stole second, then Brain Craft also walked and the runners moved up when Mike Plocharczyk sacrificed. Greg Maas was safe allowing one run to score and Walker singled in the other run. In the fifth, walks to Irwin and Mervyn, a throwing error and Robinson's fielder's choice allowed the Rockets to put a run on the board.

Glenn returns to the diamond on Friday, taking on Thurston for the third time this season.

The week began with Livonia Franklin and North Farmington sharing first, each with 5-1 records, while Glenn was 2-4 in the league; Thurston, 2-5, while Garden City East was 1-5.

Lemontree lures pro racquetballers

Three Michigan players are among the top ranked pros who will be competing in the United States Racquetball Association national championships, June 17-19.

The championships will be held in Belleville at the Sports Illustrated Court Clubs-Lemontree, 1-94 South Service Dr., west of Belleville Rd., in Van Buren Township.

Steve Keeler, 29, of Haslett near Lansing, a noted control player, ranks fifth among all-time money winners.

Mike Yellen, 18, Southfield, ranks among the top 16 in his first year as a tournament player and Kathy Williams, 30, Hazel Park, ranks fourth among women winners.

Johnny Long, Kaseta in 'Star' lineup

University of Detroit senior co-captains John Long of Romulus and Kevin Kaseta of Livonia Franklin - two members of the All-Area cage teams of the early 70's - were in the lineup of the Michigan College All Star Teams who played Saturday in Grand Rapids Junior College's Gerald R. Ford Fieldhouse.

Long, who along with Titan co-captain Terry Tyler (Detroit Northwestern) played on the winning Midwest Team in the Aloha Classic where their teammates were Butch Lee and Jerome Whitehead of Marquette, Dave Corzine of DePaul, Mychal Thompson of Minnesota, Michael Evans of Kansas State and Roger Phegley of Bradley, was U-D's leading scorer for the fourth straight season in 1977-78 and set all-time Titan career scoring mark of 2,167 points.

Kaseta came back from a serious knee surgery during his junior year and regained a starting berth for the Titans who logged a second consecutive 25-4 season and entered post-season tournament competition for the second straight year, advancing to the NIT quarter-finals.

Taking advantage of a basketball clinic, these youngsters learned the fundamentals of the game from Romulus head coach Rod Hanna (at left) and his staff who organized weekend clinics for various age groups. At the end of the clinic, sponsored by the Romulus Parks and Recreation Department, the participants were awarded trophies for their abilities in the various aspects of the game. More than 200 youngsters took part in the 8-weekend clinic.

Grasley said after his Spartans buried Crestwood 98-59 and erased their biggest threat, Garden City West, 81-51, last Tuesday.

"But fortunately we have a group of strong, dedicated kids who didn't let themselves get disillusioned about their chances.

"They made every attempt to win with those guys watching on the sidelines," Grasley said.

The victory cleared the way for Cherry Hill's duel with Southgate, a team that may ignominiously reciprocate to a deed the Spartans pulled off in 1967, Grasley's first year as head coach.

"We snapped their 32-meet winning streak in my first year," Grasley reflected, "and I'm sure they haven't forgotten and will try to return the favor."

Against West, sophomore Ramon Lara contributed two of the Spartan six first places as he won the two-mile (10:12) and the mile (4:39.7).

"The fact that we came through in the field events was the major reason for us beating West and Crestwood," Grasley offered.

will also be awarded and, in addition, all golfers will have a chance to shoot for a hole-in-one at the designated par three contest hole.

Anyone who makes the lucky shot will receive prizes of golf equipment, valued at just under the U.S. Golf Association maximum.

Presently in its 75th year, Big Brothers-Big Sisters Inc., matches children from one-parent families with screened and supervised adult volunteers, who spend at least two to five hours a week with their Little Brother or Sister, providing them with friendship, support and guidance during the formative years of their lives.

Spartans explode

helped his cause with a perfect four for four, including a pair of singles and doubles and three runs batted in. He also scored three times.

Hoffer, Buck, Doyle, Boren each checked in with two hits in four appearances at the plate.

Glenn Dupler hammered a third-inning homer off of Searcy.

Cherry Hill's date with Clarendville Friday will determine which of the two teams will be represented at the Class B district playoffs at South Lyon. The district tournament will get underway on Sat., June 3.

Sports Meridian

bolster girls' sports in the district.

"It isn't because of Title 9's edicts," stresses Hardy, "but I feel that the girls deserve the finest we can give them. Old traditions are slowly crumbling — look at what the colleges are doing for women's athletics. Therefore, it is only fitting that we give the girls a right that belongs to them, the right to a well-organized physical education and athletic program. We are going to have a first class operation here, believe me."

Didn't I tell ya that there was a reaffirmation at Romulus?

Is there a lawyer in the house?

My old professor used to say that if you stay in the newspaper business long enough you're bound to be sued by someone.

"And, if you ain't, then you're not doing your job. Well, guess the old professor was right.

Last week, a group of Livonia Franklin track fans said they were going to sue us for "libel and slander." (I can understand libel because of something I wrote, but I don't remember slandering anyone.)

Anyway, the group of four Patriotic Franklin track fans said that the "suit" stems from a caption under the heading, "Why are these people sitting in the cold?" which appeared under a picture in last week's edition, page five.

It appears that the fans aren't "rabid Westland John Glenn track and field fans," but, in reality, "rabid Livonia Franklin track and field fans."

And we're sorry about that - the error, of course.

And we hope the fans - Cheadle, Reich, Daniels and Berry can forgive an overworked, underpaid aging father-of-seven editor.

AUTO FACTS

by Chet Kosin

Plain common sense applied to the way you drive and maintain your car will save money and add longevity to your vehicle. All fluid levels — water (battery and radiator), oil (power steering, transmission, engine) should be checked regularly and kept at proper operating levels. When driving in traffic, don't accelerate rapidly only to find yourself having to brake just as rapidly. Nice and easy does it! The less you use your brakes, the longer they'll last. Take your foot off the gas pedal and coast up to a red light. The same goes for long sweeping curves and when driving on the highway — decelerate before entering the curve and then control speed by your throttle not your brake.

Do - it - yourself mechanics are invited to take advantage of the huge stock of quality parts and accessories available at KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan, Inkster! We specialize in all kinds of foreign auto parts — Datsun, Toyota, Fiat, Opel, Volkswagen, and many others. We also carry parts for all domestic cars. Our fully-equipped machine shop handles machine work for just about any size and model of engine. We work on motorcycles, Diesels, automotive, industrial, marine, or agricultural engines. Call KOSIN'S at 563-3894. We are open daily from 8 A.M. until 8 P.M., and on Saturdays from 8 A.M. until 5 P.M.

New National Smoker Study:

"Wish I'd Tried One Sooner."

Low tar MERIT proven major alternative for high tar smokers—see results below.

Can low tar MERIT packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco measure up to the taste expectations of current smokers of high tar cigarettes?

Read the results from a new, nationwide research effort involving smokers who actually tested MERIT against leading high tar brands.

Results Confirm Breakthrough

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers rate MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

And in detailed interviews conducted among current MERIT smokers?

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an "easy switch" from high tar brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed!

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT smokers not considering other brands.

First Major Alternative To High Tar Smoking

MERIT has proven conclusively that it not only delivers the flavor of high tar brands—but continues to satisfy!

This ability to satisfy over long periods of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is what it claims to be:

The first real taste alternative for high tar smokers.

Outstanding athlete for 1978

Romulus to honor Brad Smith

Every year at the Mayor's Exchange Banquet, city leaders honor a local resident for his or her outstanding contribution in the field of athletics or academic achievement.

This year's recipient is Bradley (Brad) J. Smith, an outstanding young wrestler graduating from the University of Toledo this year.

Last year, John Long, considered by many as the finest basketball prospect to come out of the Romulus athletic program, received plaudits for his contribution to the University of Detroit basketball team.

Mayor William M. Oakley, said in announcing Smith's selection, "Brad Smith is not only an excellent athlete, but a poised young man, who has represented his community well as an ambassador of goodwill on several overseas wrestling tours. He is an asset to our city and has set a fine example for other young people to follow."

The outstanding young wrestler will be honored during Michigan Week in Romulus, following in the footsteps of John Long last year.

"Brad Smith was so important to our team that when he was injured in his senior year it completely demoralized our wrestling squad."

This is how Harvey Boles, University of Toledo head wrestling coach, assessed Smith's value to his team.

And this is how most coaches who worked with Brad, who earned All-American fame as a sophomore at U of T and was a two-time state wrestling champ at Romulus High, have felt about this young athlete.

"Once in a while an athlete comes along whose frankness and honesty is combined with natural athletic talent," Boles continued. "This is Brad Smith — he has been a pleasure to coach and a person we will miss."

Brad, raised in Romulus, has left an indelible mark on the city, the surrounding area, the state, nation as well as overseas. He has competed on the mats in such unfamiliar places as Baku, in southern Soviet Russia, in Bulgaria and Japan and has been an outstanding ambassador of goodwill.

During his collegiate career, Smith won 21 consecutive matches until he reinjured his shoulder at Kent State which caused him to default in the Mid-American Conference championships and surrender the 142-pound crown, a title he had won as a sophomore.

Because of Smith's noticeable absence from the University of Toledo lineup, Boles' squad finished with a 6-3 record and in sixth place in the MAC.

"The reason why we finished sixth was because we lost Brad Smith," Boles said.

But, Brad's athletic ability isn't the only reason why the city of Romulus is honoring this outstanding citizen during Michigan Week.

Brad Smith exemplifies what youth of today can accomplish when they put their mind to it. There are many avenues that can sidetrack youngsters today and some lead to a dismal and a sordid life.

The Brad Smiths of today are proof that the cities and the schools and the parents are working together and doing something right.

Sponsored by "We the People," the day offers residents a chance to buy or browse past booths manned by local merchants, artisans and craftsmen, while munching on a polish sausage or imported cheese or enjoy an Hungarian dance troop or belly dancing demonstration.

Organizers guarantee ample, free booth space and urge anyone interested in participating to call Midge Prybyla at 941-2356.

The week draws to its grand finale on Saturday, May 27, when one of the most vibrant and active groups, the senior citizens, host "Community Pride Day" at City Hall.

Romulus' elder citizens will center their activities around a potluck picnic with varied games, contests and craft demonstrations and square dancing filling out the day.

The oldest male and female and longest-married couple will be honored in award ceremonies as well as recognition given to essays centering on historical events, persons or places connected with Romulus.

All nominations for oldest citizen and historical themes should be received by the Romulus Recreation Department no later than May 19.

So Romulus, brace yourselves, clear your calendars and plan to participate in Michigan Week '78 - Romulus style.

Fun for everyone

Scene from last year's Michigan Week celebration in Romulus shows fun and merriment enjoyed by those who attended the festivities. This year's observance promises no less.

programs and presentations, awards and ceremonies.

All these varied combinations and much more are the vital ingredients that make up the city of Romulus' second annual week-long celebration of Michigan Week, May 20-27, 1978.

Again this year, city officials are being joined by community organizations, civic clubs, citizen volunteers, the school system and Wayne County in planning and presenting a full 8-day schedule of activities for the benefit and enjoyment of Romulus residents.

According to Mayor William M. Oakley, "The object of the week is to involve as many segments of the community as possible, in order to foster a genuine feeling of community pride and hospitality."

In seeking to accomplish this goal, the week is divided into theme days, each with a different emphasis and target audience.

Beginning Saturday, May 20, Romulus City Hall will be the staging area for "Youth Day", one of the most colorful of the eight days. Highlights of the day include a pentathlon competition, a precision marching drill by members of the Romulus Civil Air Patrol Squadron, a fascinating puppet show performed by the Molby Marionettes, and con-

Pearl Morris home of 13880 Huron River Dr. will be officially designated a local historical site by city dignitaries. The homestead has been selected by the Michigan Historical Commission as a result of an historical sites survey conducted last summer.

In the afternoon, starting at 2 p.m., all residents are encouraged to share in a potluck picnic at Elmer Johnson Park followed by a softball game between city hall and school board employees.

Monday, May 22 marks "Government Day," and city Hall will roll out the red carpet for visiting Mayor Vickers C. Hansen and his party from Manistee, Mich.

Included in his busy schedule will be morning presentations by city department heads, followed by tours of the city and local industries and concluding with a banquet at the Ramada Inn.

The 7 p.m. mayor's exchange banquet is open to the public. Tickets are $7.50 per person and can be obtained from the city clerk's office.

Tuesday is "World Trade Day," and again this year, the Wayne County Road Commission is offering free tours of the airport for a "behind the scenes" glimpse of the daily operations of a busy international jetport.

Buses will leave city hall at 9:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. and tour the International

Day," is being sponsored this year by the newly-formed Romulus Chamber of Commerce. The chamber is hosting a community-wide "charter luncheon" at the Squires Restaurant in the Ramada Inn, beginning at 11:30 a.m.

Planners are looking for 300 local businessmen and private citizens to attend the luncheon and hear Jim Barrett, president of the State Chamber of Commerce, speak on a Livelihood Day topic. For ticket information, call the chamber office at 941-5710, or 941-5711.

On Thursday, "Education Day", students from kindergarten through senior high school will be involved in numerous educational projects emphasizing Michigan pits history, land, people and products.

For example, some elementary classes are taking field trips to historical sites, while the food services class in the high school will be preparing and offering a special luncheon prepared from Michigan-grown produce only.

Also, all Romulus schools will be open to parents on Education Day, the elementary schools from 9 a.m. - 2:30 p.m., the secondary schools from 8 a.m. until 1:30 p.m.

New 34th District Court building in Romulus

Early Romulus quaint vs. today

By WILLIAM WHITEACRE

The township was organized in the year 1835, under the following act of the Territorial Legislature:

"Be it enacted by the Legislative Council of the Territory of Michigan: That all that part of the township of Huron known and distinguished as town number 3 south of range number 9 east, be a township by the name of Romulus, and that the first township meeting be held at the dwelling-house of Joseph T. Pullen, in said township."

The above act was passed in the month of February in the year 1835, and the first annual meeting in pursuance thereof was held on the 6th of April of the same year.

Voted: That a bounty of $2 be paid on every wolf caught in the township of Romulus by actual settlers.

Voted: That the next annual township meeting be held at the dwelling-house of Joseph T. Pullen.

The next meeting of the Board, as before stated, was in March, 1836, at which accounts to the amount of $12 were audited, making for the full year's expenses of the township government $39.25, and this meager sum served to lubricate the wheels of government in the township for the first year of its existence as an independent township. It would hardly suffice to keep the machinery moving at the present time. The small amount paid to the supervisor will be understood when it is stated that the supervisor drew his pay for extending the roll, and meeting with the County Board of Supervisors, directly from the county.

Following is the settlement with the supervisor, from which it appears that the supervisor acted as treasurer. From this settlement it appears that he had received $34.34, and had paid out $27.25, leaving a balance in the treasury of $7.09. I also find the record of a special township meeting held on the 12th day of September, 1839, for the purpose of electing delegates to the territorial convention held at Ann Arbor, September 26th, 1876, for the purpose of forming a State Constitution, preparatory to the admission of the State into the Union.

The records show that David J. Pullen was elected to the office of supervisor for four successive terms. The old gentleman often relates his experience at his first meeting with the board in the autumn of 1835, which shows that then as now, the board often took advantage of a new member to "set him up". He says that his wild lands, which then comprised the greater part of the town, were assessed at $2.50 per acre. When the various rolls were delivered to the committee on equalization he found that the other supervisors had assessed the same kind of lands at only $1.25 per acre. In view of this fact he at once moved to have his assessment reduced to the same basis, which, in equity, should have been done. But this was strenuously opposed by several members of the board, who contended that as he had made his own assessment he should be willing to abide by it, and so they paid nearly double the amount of state and county tax that in justice it should have paid. "But," adds the old gentleman with a smile, "I fixed them the next year."

Romulus Fire Department headquarters building

Courthouse, fire station to debut

Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley and city officials are looking toward a mid-July dedication of the new $1 million 34th District Court facility located next to the civic center and $500,000 Fire Department Headquarters located at Eureka Road, east of Middlebelt Road.

The two new structures, now nearing completion (pictured in an artist's conception above and on page 4) have been in the planning stages since the early 1970's.

Funded entirely by grants from the Economic Development Administration, the two latest additions to Romulus' public buildings fill desperate building needs.

The present 34th District Court is housed in an old one-room schoolhouse and attached mobile home. Many of Romulus' early residents remember attending school in the dilapidated structure.

The fire station, currently a cement block structure built in 1930, was designed to service a largely rural area.

Within the last five years, 1,500 new homes, 300 apartments, two elementary schools, a public park and 20 new commercial and industrial concerns have been erected in the same service area.

The new courthouse, covering 14,000 square feet covers a jurisdictional area of Romulus, Belleville and Van Buren, Sumpter and Huron Townships, as well as the Metro Airport.

Wayne Road has been widened to four lanes from Goddard Road to Bibbins Street in anticipation of increased traffic to the law facility, and plans are in the works for modern lighting systems for the area, as well.

The new 7,700-square-foot fire department headquarters will feature a large reception area and dispatch office, in addition to a "day room" used for training sessions, a fully-equipped kitchen, library and study room, storage areas, locker and shower facilities, workshops, emergency power generators and two 74-foot-long drive-through bay areas.

The fire station will also include such modern equipment as hose dryers, oxygen filling systems as well as one full-sized fire engine, one quick attack pumper and a fully-equipped rescue van.

Manistee mayor to visit plant

One of the places that Dr. Vickers C. Hansen of Manistee will visit while serving as acting Mayor of Romulus during Michigan Week, May 22, will be the world headquarters of the Micro-Measurements Company of Romulus. Toured recently by Mayor William M. Oakley, in preparation for the mayor's exchange visit, Micro-Measurements is nestled between the I-275 and I-94 expressways.

However, under its unimposing exterior lies a 30,000 square foot manufacturing area, housing some of the most sophisticated strain testing and micro gage manufacturing equipment in the world.

Founded by area resident James E. Starr in 1962, the company is now a division of a widely-diversified parent company called Vishay Intertechnology, Inc., with divisions in Tel Aviv, Paris, Munich, Pennsylvania and soon North Carolina.

The Micro-Measurements Division is the world's largest supplier of strain gages, controlling over 70 percent of the domestic market for the tiny instruments.

M-M produces over 40,000 different types of gages, making their product the most versatile and widely used tool in the field of experimental stress analysis.

Briefly, strain gages are small, thin precision sensors which are adhesively bonded to critical areas of structural parts to provide electrical readouts of stresses and strains.

Their application is virtually unlimited. They can be used on everything from human bones, Toledo scales, oil drilling rigs to huge 747 jet aircraft, and a wide variety of industrial uses in between.

A typical strain gage is thinner than a postage stamp and some micro-miniature types are no larger than the head of a pin.

After being bonded in place, gages are connected by leadwires to readout instruments, but once removed, that can never be reused, thus assuring the company of a continuing demand for their product.

Because of the extremely small tolerances required in the manufacture of the gages, the skilled assembly workers inhabit a carefully controlled temperature, humidity, pressurized and dust-free environment.

As a result, the workers, 87 percent of whom are women, often experience fewer illnesses than their outside counter parts.

According to Art Renaud, Personnel Manager of the firm, women are better able temperamentally and physically to work under the exacting and sometimes tedious conditions required.

Many of the 240 employees are Romulus housewives, who have completed an extensive two-year training program and remained with the company for several years.

Violet Pawloski of 34800 McBride in Romulus has been with Micro-Measurements since 1974, and particularly enjoys the innovative four-day work week started in 1971.

She works a nine-hour day, but has a three-day weekend to look forward to.

The only problem, she says, is that it gives her more time to spend her earnings.

Prior to his tour of Micro-Measurements, Mayor Hansen's busy day will begin with breakfast at Romulus Radada Inn at 8 a.m.

The future for city residents?

Insta-Glide may be travel of the future

Last year, Romulus City Council was exposed to what its proponents believe may well be the kind of mass transportation system that will link Metro Airport and Romulus to downtown Detroit.

Architect's sketch (above) portrays a unique mass transportation system called Insta-Glide. Electrically propelled cars would carry up to 38 passengers on specially designed guideways at up to 60 miles an hour on elevated twin tracks.

Special 6-passenger cars would be used in heavily-populated urban areas with express rides available to specific destinations. The larger and smaller cars would be interchangeable.

Insta-Glide features a safety system that makes rear end collisions impossible, according to its inventors. An air cushion is utilized within the sealed tube that surrounds the drive mechanism that compresses when another train approaches from the rear, which prevents actual contact from occurring.

The system also enables trains to run disconnected, which means that one or more cars can be dropped off at specific stops, allowing the train to continue on without stopping.

The maximum theoretical one-way capacity of Insta-Glide mass transportation is estimated at 17,000 persons per hour.

The inventors, Linear Air Motors, Inc., Rochester, Mich., presented the proposal to Romulus council members last year as their concept of what the turn of the century may offer residents of Romulus.

MASTER PLAN - 1990

CITY OF ROMULUS

WAYNE COUNTY, MICHIGAN

ROMULUS CITY PLANNING COMMISSION

PUBLIC HEARING DATE JUNE 1978
PLANNING COMMISSION ACTION
CITY COUNCIL ACTION

COMMUNITY PLANNING & MANAGEMENT, P.C.
UTICA, MICHIGAN

Many changes by 1990

Master Plan predicts city growth

The city Master Plan was prepared in detail by the Romulus City Planning Commission to show prepared community development by the year 1990.

This Master Plan is the summation of over two years of research, analysis and planning by the City Planning Commission, the City Council, the City Administration and its departments, and the Planning Consultant, Community Planning and Management.

During this period, numerous reports and memorandums were prepared and studied. These studies formed the basis for the planning recommendations which make up the Master Plan.

The purpose of the Master Plan for future land uses is to guide the growth of the City of Romulus in a logical, orderly fashion so as to ensure a well balanced community from a physical, economic and social point of view.

Restated, the Plan is fundamentally a policy statement intended for use as a guide in making decisions in both the public and private sector. Utilization of the Plan can reassure long term investments and minimize conflicts or economic losses.

By using the Master Plan as the general guide and the zoning ordinance and subdivision regulations as enforcement tools, the City can establish the optimum land use patterns. Once this pattern is established, public and private investors then have a basis for making rational decisions.

The Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport encompasses over 5,000 acres in the center of the City. This facility provides national as well as international service and is one of the busiest airports within the United States. In addition, major air transportation, the City is traversed by two major railroads and two interstate freeways.

As a result, there are about 2,000 acres of land developed for industrial use. Industrial giants such as Detroit Diesel, Kelsey-Hayes and Kerr Manufacturing absorb nearly 1,000 acres of land.

In the past few years nearly one-half million square feet of new industrial building have been constructed. There is presently under construction or programmed for construction an additional one million square feet. This growth will undoubtedly continue as a result of the ideal transportation facilities and the availability of public sewer and water and natural gas.

The Master Plan for the City of Romulus recognizes the impact of the metropolitan airport and the potential of industrial expansion. The Plan is long range in nature.

That is it views the development that can or should occur over the next two decades.

The Plan is generalized in that it indicates only general locations for various land uses and is not directly related to property lines. It is comprehensive in scope since it examines the relationships between major land use and transportation facilities.

Because the City is an integral part of the Detroit Metropolitan region, the Plan recognizes regional impacts and limitations particularly in terms of population and economic growth.

Even though a great amount of effort and time went into the development of the Master Plan, a thorough review of the Plan should be undertaken every five or ten years. If major rezonings occur or trends and conditions change then the Master Plan should be amended to realistically reflect current development goals and policies.

The residential acreage and density figures used in this Plan could provide housing areas for a population of over 70,000 persons. This is at least twice the population anticipated over the next 20 to 25 years. The present population (1975) is about 25,000 persons. The population projection of 45,000 persons by 1990 represents a moderate growth rate of 80 percent over the next 15 years.

Approximately 25 percent of the City is shown for industrial land use on the Master Plan. This is in keeping with maximizing the location and transportation advantages of the City and also with the desire of the City to attract new industry. The land use acreage proposals are projected as follows:

SUMMARY OF LAND USES

LAND USE	1974 Survey	Acres	1990
Single Family	2,172		5,600
Moderate Density	178		700
Commercial & Office	391		1,150
Industrial	1,456		5,810
Public & Semi-Public	1,001		1,171
Transportation	2,142		3,500
Airport	4,447		5,200
Agriculture & Vacant	11,343		—
TOTAL	23,131		23,131

The City's Master Plan should not be viewed as an inflexible document. Changing future conditions cannot all be anticipated and periodic review of the Master Plan should be undertaken in order to assure that the proposals remain realistic as well as idealistic.

If future development decisions are based on the goals of the City of Romulus Master Plan, growth of the community can occur in an orderly fashion. The Plan attempts to provide all residents of the City, both present and future, with a more desirable and pleasant community in which to live, work, and enjoy leisure time activities.

CONGESTION IN SCHOOL TO BE RELIEVED SOON

Rawsonville Voters Approve Plan For Addition to Schoolhouse

A plan to provide more schoolroom space for children attending Rawsonville school, calling for a 30-foot addition to the present building, was carried by a majority of seven votes Monday night at the annual meeting of the Rawsonville board of education.

The final tally was 16 votes to 25. At the annual election which followed, Ray Miller was elected trustee, replacing Wilmer Corliss, trustee for 15 years.

With the addition plan approved by the voters, a motion to appoint a building committee to determine the advisability of new building was passed. Named to the committee were George Walker, Wallace Hewitt and Ray Miller.

The congestion in the Rawsonville school house has caused parents and taxpayers to consider the situation at the previous meetings. At the first meeting, a committee was appointed to contact the State Board of Education and the officials of Van Buren Consolidated school system and Linton school system. Assistance was also sought of Henry Ford in relieving the situation temporarily. During the second meeting, plans for building an addition or erecting a new structure were discussed thoroughly.

A report Monday night indicated that "Mr. Ford might assist in relieving the congested situation temporarily."

Another meeting is scheduled for July 24, during which it is believed, further action may be taken.

The segregation of voters Monday night, more than 50 taxpayers and parents, was a sharp contrast to last year's meeting at which there were enough were present to constitute a quorum.

Detroit Diesel expands facilities

Detroit Diesel Allison's three large expansion programs on the division's Romulus site are progressing simultaneously, with the first, the new engineering center, scheduled for completion early next year, according to division officials. Currently under construction on the 325-acre site, in addition to engineering center, are an expansion of the existing parts distribution center and new manufacturing space for the division's 8.2-litre medium-duty diesel engine. Both facilities will be completed in 1980.

8.2 Litre engine manufacturing facility

The new engine plant is expected to bring approximately 1,000 new jobs to the area within the next few years, while the expansion of the parts center should increase employment by another 300 persons. About 75 engineers, technicians, and mechanics will work in the new engineering center, most of them relocated from the current Redford facility.

Following is the status of each program:
Parts Distribution Center Expansion - The parking lot has been completed except for storm sewers. The structural steel is nearly complete and occupancy for the installation of material handling and parts sorting and storage equipment will begin this fall. The high-rise parts storage and retrieval system will be the largest such facility in the U.S. and will feature sophisticated computerized controls and the capacity to process and ship 450 tons of engine and transmission parts per day.

Engineering Center - The 240,000-square-foot complex, begun last summer, has seen erection of the structural steel and will be ready for installation of equipment in the 12 engine performance test cells by early summer. The rest of the building will be completed in November, with the complex fully operational by mid-1979. It has been designed with an attractive glass and paneled exterior and will retain the natural landscaping wherever possible. Inside, the Building will feature bold graphics and will be partially heated with waste heat from engines in the performance test cells.

8.2-litre Engine Manufacturing Facility - A 400,000-square-foot expansion of the present parts manufacturing facility, completed in 1976, the addition will provide the floor space necessary to produce the new engine line for medium-duty trucks and buses. The site and foundation work are being completed while nearly 20 percent of the steel work has been erected. The building will be completed by next February and the installation of tooling will begin this fall as floor space becomes available. Production of the engines is scheduled to begin in 1980.

Local house to be historical site

By CARL MORRIS

According to family history, in 1845 Robert Anson Morris came to Detroit, from Ballston Spa, N. Y. where he was born in 1811. He was accompanied by his wife, the former Jane Phillips, and small children, a son, Hiram G. and a daughter, Mary Jane, who was to later marry Peter C. Bird of Romulus.

H. W. Merrill persuaded Robert Anson Morris to move to this area in 1847 because of the good farmland in Romulus Township. Robert Anson Morris, who is known to have acquired more than 1,600 acres here before his death, April 26, 1866 at age 55 years, lived as a neighbor to the Merrill family, whose home is now known as the Merrill-Mason-Grow-Morris-Morris residence. Merrill died in 1881.

In the "Illustrated Historical Atlas of the County of Wayne, Michigan", printed in 1877 by H. Belden & Company, Lakeside Building, Chicago, Ill., on page 37 is a drawing of the original farm home. According to Ray V. Morris, grandson of Robert Anson Morris and later owner, the Merrill residence was built in 1836.

This was just nine years after Romulus was first settled in 1827, and one year before Michigan became a state in 1837.

Ray V. Morris' mother, Annie M. Morris, wife of Hiram G. Morris, purchased 40 acres of land, including the house and summer kitchen and out buildings of the original Merrill residence, from Elizabeth Grow, widow of Porter Grow, on Oct. 8, 1912. The barn to the south of the house had burned previously of causes unknown. The Grows had purchased the house and property from the Mason family.

Annie M. Morris immediately sold the house and 40 acres to their eldest son, Ray V. Morris. Before taking a bride, Ray V. Morris had the summer kitchen removed and two porches added to the home in 1913. A large red (wood) barn was built on a knoll northwest of the house in 1912 by Morris who hired Charles Bateham of Belleville as contractor.

Of Dutch architecture, the barn stood 40 feet high but had no cross beams whatsoever to support the high hipped roof. Inside it was completely hollow which afforded plenty of room for hay and grain storage. Cattle and mules were housed in the poured concrete basement. Ray V. Morris insisted that two nails be driven when only one was needed, which no doubt attributed to the fact that the building stood steadfast and sound through the winds and storms of 57 years. In 1969 the barn was destroyed by fire accidentally set by neighborhood children. Oldtimers still recall how neighbors and friends from miles around came to celebrate its completion with a big barn dance and plenty of good food. The Morris family orchestra group and others furnished music for dancing. Father Hiram often played the "bones" which substituted for drums. Grandchildren later held 4-H square dances in the barn and the eldest granddaughter had a high school graduation barn dance there.

Flora L. Morris maintained and preserved the residence with love and care for some 28 years following the untimely death of her husband, Ray V. Morris in 1942. Her large well-kept lawn had come only as a result of much toil and determination. When she first arrived to begin housekeeping, the yard was filled with an old orchard of fruit trees, and the ground was filled with chunks and pieces of granite and stone embedded in the soil — left by a stone cutter who had cut gravestones there in earlier years. All had to be dug out and removed piece by piece after the day's work was done with the help of a hired hand.

(According to a Platt record in the Wayne Historical Museum dated 1860, a business was designated B.S.S. and a building indicated on the property.)

Upon the passing of Flora L. Morris on Nov. 16, 1970 the home and two acres (more or less) passed to their eldest daughter and present owner, Miss Pearl M. Morris of 13880 Huron River Dr., Romulus.

Well-preserved and in excellent condition, the house structure was originally of clapboard construction, but now is covered with aluminum siding. It has a wood frame with interlocking joints, and is supported by huge walnut beams which were hewn with an adz. It is on the original site and is surrounded by a four-car garage, privy, storage shed and some apple orchards.

This Methodist parsonage, as photo shows, Romulus became a city, a far cry from was a farmhouse in the years before some of today's palatial residences.
